

Voting on High School; No New Taxes Involved

(Sketch on Page 17)

Voting will take place between noon and 7 p.m. Saturday at 15 polling places in the Granite City school district on designating the 86-acre Maryville Road-Highway 203 school site for construction of a second high school.

No additional bonds and no additional taxes are involved, the ballot specifies. Funds for constructing and equipping the new school were authorized by voters in balloting Dec. 7, 1968.

Reason for the special election is a recommendation by the school board and administrators that the school system establish two high schools now rather than waiting five or six years.

The plan in 1968 was to build a combination grade school and junior high school which later could be converted to high school use. Since then, upper grades have become more crowded than expected and lower grades have decreased in size.

Vote at Grade Schools
Residents will vote according to grade school zones.

The polls are at McKinley, Lake, Washington, new Logan, Emerson, Webster, Marshall, Niedringhaus, Frohardt, Maryville, Wilson, Nameoli, Parkview, Mitchell and Stallings Schools.

Favorable votes have been recommended by Supt. Bob J. Davis and by the school board, whose president is Carl Macios.

The plan is based on studies of enrollment trends and population distribution, made by committees composed of teachers and administrators.

$3,850,000 Project
Utilizing a steel gymnasium area similar to that just added to the Granite City High School gymnasium, architects estimate that the new school can be built for $3,496,800, plus $350,000 for equipment and $211,200 fees, totaling $3,858,100.

There is $3,600,000 available from the bond issue, $168,000 from the existing special education construction tax in 1971 and 1972 and $91,000 from state reimbursements for professional workers during the same two years—a total of $3,859,000.

Special education facilities are to be included in the new school.

"The vocational department at the Wein tract would not be built at this time but general industrial shop classes are to be included and ways would be found to provide vocational classes," Supt. Davis has told the Press-Record.

"The music department initially would use space not intended for its functions, but an adequate music program could be offered."

"The athletic area would not be complete, and many of the activities would have to be scheduled at our present facilities."

"From a bond issue in future years to complete the new school."

Boy, 13, Dies, 3 Hurt In River Road Crash

(Pictures on Page 8)

A 13-year-old Granite City boy was injured fatally and three other persons were hurt in a two-car collision on FA Route 151 at North Street at 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

Ronald P. Bauer, son of Mrs. Dorothy Bauer, 2809 Logan Ave., was a passenger in an auto driven by his stepmother, Mrs. Dottie Bauer, 18, of 2127 Edwardsville Road, which was struck broadside while crossing FA Route 151, The Great River Road, eastbound on North Street.

Mrs. Karin L. Lewis, 29, of Rural Route One, Box 358, Granite City, a student driver, was northbound on Route 151 when her driving instructor, Henry E. Maul, 47, of Alton, Ill., was struck.

Maul told state troopers the Bauer auto pulled out in front of the AADTA Driving School car and Mrs. Lewis was unable to avoid striking the right side of the auto.

The four were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where Ronald Bauer was pronounced dead and transferred to Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital, St. Louis. He died at 4 a.m. today of severe head injuries.

Suffers Facial Injuries
His stepmother was treated for facial injuries, including the loss of several teeth, and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, still unconscious from the accident. She was admitted there in serious condition but was listed as fair this morning.

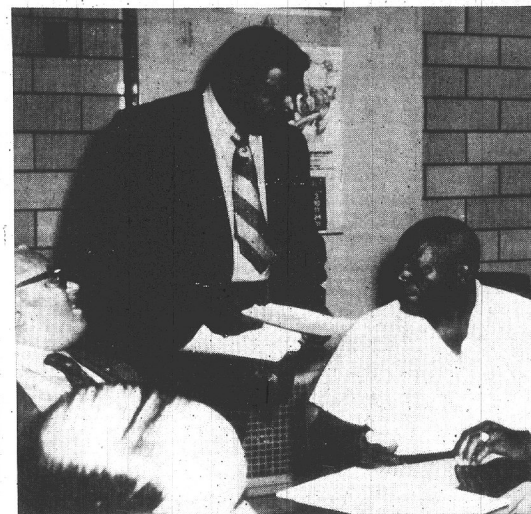

Mrs. Lewis was treated at St. Elizabeth hospital for a one-inch laceration to the front of her scalp and abrasions and contusions to her left elbow, her left and right forearms and both knees. X-rays were taken of her skull, spine, left elbow and both knees and both forearms and she was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, where her condition was listed as satisfactory this morning.

Maul was treated here for a laceration to the front of his scalp, cuts to his left elbow, right rib area and both knees, and an abrasion to the right side of his chest. X-rays were taken of his skull, spine, chest, left elbow and both knees and he was released.

State police, who investigated the accident, said that after

Chancellors Now Shoulder Most Responsibilities of SIU President

In a report prepared for the Illinois Board of Higher Education, the University Administrative Council has recommended that the period for reorganization of SIU be continued to June 30, 1972, and that a president of the SIU system not be appointed during that period.

The council has functioned since Sept. 1, when President Delyte W. Morris requested emeritus status.

In addition to being the chief administrative authority of SIU, the Council has concentrated on decentralization, assigning to the chancellors of the Carbondale and Southwestern campuses operating units and functions which previously have been central or all-university.

During the extended period, principal objectives will be completion of decentralization, evaluation of the results of decentralization, and development of final recommendations for administrative organization.

The report indicated that the question of having a permanent president or system head will depend upon determination of whether there is need for central functions relating to two major campuses.

Also, it is expected that the roles of the chancellors and the chief of board staff will become clearer as progress is made toward establishing campus operational autonomy while under one board of trustees.

The judgment of the Council is that remaining central operating units can and should be decentralized and that the two campuses should have autonomy within a year.

To be determined is whether there should remain certain central functions and activities.

The report states that as operational decentralization moves toward completion, relationships with the state government and the Illinois Board of Higher Education increasingly will be the responsibility of the chancellors and the chief of board staff.

Council Revision
Meanwhile, it is recommended that the make-up of the Council be changed. Present members, each of whom reports directly to the board, are Chancellors Robert G. Laver of Carbondale and John S. Rondenian of SIU-SV. System Vice Presidents Isaac P. Brackett of Carbondale and Ralph W. Ruffner of SIU-SV and Clarence W. Stephens, Carbondale, chairman. James M. Brown, chief of board staff, is a non-voting member.

It is proposed that, beginning Sept. 1, the Council be composed of the two chancellors, one system vice-president, the chief of board staff, and a chairman to be selected by the board, with the chairman and the vice-president to be given administrative and coordinative duties.

St. Louis Man Drowns in River

A St. Louis man drowned early today in the Mississippi River at the low water dam after he entered the water at about 4 a.m. to take a bath.

Madison County authorities reported that he disappeared in the water about 45 minutes later. Sheriff's deputies were called at 5:45 a.m.

The Alton Volunteer Emergency Corps arrived at the scene at 6:40 a.m., set up its equipment, entered the water at 7:15 a.m. and recovered the body at 7:30 a.m.

It was found 75 feet from shore and 500 feet south of the old Chain of Rocks Bridge. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Robert Thomas.

The identity of the victim was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Madison Adopts Longevity Plan In New Budget

By MARION BARTOSIAK
Press-Record Staff Writer

A new longevity and pay-incentive plan, plus a $25 across-the-board salary increase was granted for all permanent city employees by the Madison City Council which adopted its budget for the current fiscal year during a meeting Tuesday night.

The budget totals $856,056.80, an increase of $63,919.80 over that of last year and shows a deficit of $15,403 over expected income.

The longevity plan calls for a 2% increase for one through five years of service, 4% for six through 10 years of service and 6% for 11 years and more. Service time will be computed from the last date of employment.

The system was negotiated with city employees. Other new benefits covered by the budget include $4,000 life insurance policies and increased health and accident benefits.

Corporate Fund
In the budget, the general corporate fund totals $611,686.80, an increase of $34,379.80. General fund anticipated receipts total $753,452 and disbursements total $768,885, accounting for the deficit.

A year-end balance was expected, however, as some appropriations will be unused, it was noted in the meeting.

A comparison of the budget by departments with that of last year follows:

Executive, $15,033, up $1,498; legislative, $28,749, up $1,749; finance and accounting, $19,985, up $1,175; legal, $12,255, down $800; street and alley, $74,472, up $12,788; fire, $48,465, up $1,150; health, $3,500, same; dog catching, $6,825, up $2,430.

The new budget eliminates last year's items of $14,500 for purchase of buildings and land and $14,500 for planning costs and reduces the item for remodeling the mayor's office.

1896-1971 Commission Form of City Government Defeated by Tie Vote of 1,477-1,477 in '26

The Granite City Diamond Jubilee will be observed Aug. 21-28. This is the 23rd in a series on local history.

The City Council enacted a comprehensive traffic ordinance on Jan. 6, 1923, calculated to check abuses created by the increased number of automobiles.

Councilmen drew public censure in March by voting eight to four against a resolution which declared the Ku Klux Klan was "un-American, contrary to law and order, and a menace to the institutions of our country."

Slovak Lutherans organized a congregation in March, 1923, and in May the Salvation Army opened a local mission. The former worshipped in Concordia Lutheran Church until completion of John's Slovak Lutheran Church in October 1924.

The Rev. Michael Costello established Sacred Heart parish in September, 1925, and a church was erected a year later. Concordia Lutheran Church, a trim Gothic structure, was built in 1926.

Thomas K. Niedringhaus, Frederick G., died in St. Louis on Oct. 28, 1925. He was a past national com-missionary of the Republic, a vice-president and director of Nesco, secretary of the Granite City Realty Co. and vice-president of the Commonwealth Steel Co.

The housing shortage which had persisted since the war gave way to a building boom in 1924. No less than 425 houses were built.

Approximately 929 building trades workmen averaged seven months of full-time employment and earned wages totaling $1,500,000.

In the nation, 1925 was the year in which the "Shenandoah," the Navy's largest lighter-than-air craft, carried its crew to destruction. William Jennings Bryan, wearied by his encounter with Clarence Darrow at the Scopes evolution trial, died in Florida.

And Red Grange, the Galloping Ghost, dazzled western football fans.

To Granite City, 1925 was the year in which buses replaced street cars to intra-city travel; (Continued on page 3, col. 1)

Among his duties pertaining to the Jubilee celebration, McCrary also will be on hand at the Jubilee Store located at 1500 Edison Ave., which also is the headquarters for the Diamond Jubilee volunteer workers, coordinating their activities.

The new store is not the normal type business place since the merchandise offered includes Gay 90's bathing suits for men and women, colorful men and boys' vests, old-time sun bonnets, Gibson girl blouses and wagon train dresses.

Novelty items available with Jubilee mugs, fans and other incidental items pertinent to the early years of this area.

The public is invited to visit the store for stimulating conversation with the "bellies" or just to sit around the stove, play a game of checkers or swap yarns of past years.

The store is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Fridays, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Frankie Hickey and Mrs. Alice McGhee. ## Commission Hungarian residents of Lincoln Place dedicated a community center.

The Illinois Power and Light Corp. bought the Granite City Light and Fuel Corp. for $530,000; and members of the Masonic Lodge, drenched by a cold spring rain, laid the cornerstone of the YMCA building.

To Southern Illinois, 1925 was the year in which a tornado ripped through many communities, killing scores and demolishing several million dollars worth of property.

Granite Cityans contributed $10,000 to aid relief work in the devastated area. Teamsters Local No. 61 transported 75 persons from Murphysboro to Granite City, where they were housed, fed and clothed.

A proposal to adopt the commission form of government was submitted to the electorate on April 30, 1926.

Although citizens had rejected the measure by a vote of 1,492 to 535 in April 1922, they cast a tie vote, 1,477 for 1,477 against.

On April 21, the City Council canvassed the returns, found them correct, and announced that the proposition had been defeated since it failed to receive a majority.

Nick Alafach, B. W. Jackson, John Kronstein, Lewis L. Lindsey, Elmer McNary, Frank Scriven and W. P. Wilson contested the election.

A recount disclosed that 789 ballots were void because they had been signed by persons other than the proper election official.

The contestants argued that, inasmuch as most of the mis-signed ballots had been cast against the proposition, the commission form of government had been adopted.

But Judge Bernreuter, in view of the 789 citizens who had been disfranchised through no fault of their own, abrogated the election. His decision was appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court.

John T. Meehan and Clyde L. Jackson also petitioned the high court to issue a mandamus compelling local officials to set up the commission form of government. In February 1927, the court refused to grant a mandamus or to review Judge Bernreuter's decision.

Utilities Light and Power Co. of New Jersey bought controlling interest in the St. Louis Coke and Iron Co. in 1927.

The Granite City Steel Plant was divorced from Nesco the same year and re-incorporated as an independent establishment, with George Niedringhaus as chairman of the board of directors.

Residents of Tri-City Park voted for annexation to Granite City in January 1927. The area was annexed to the First Ward on March 7.

James J. Davis, incumbent Secretary of Labor and one-time iron puddler, gave the principal address at the fifty-second annual convention of the

A.A.I.S. & T.W., held in Granite City in April 1927.

Reminding his hearers that he, too, had once worked in the mills, Davis expressed hopes for greater cooperation between employer and employee, and advised postponement of demands for wage increases until firm improvement.

A 70-mile-an-hour gale damaged the industrial district on May 8, 1927.

The wind wrecked a new power-house at the St. Louis Coke and Iron Plant, shattered windows and unroofed buildings at the Commonwealth Plant and demolished a machine shop and bowled over two smoke stacks at the Nesco Plant.

It hurled the upper part of the Shultz & Neimeier Elevator through the roof of Pershall and Sons' warehouse. Property losses amounted to $50,000. Save for loosened shingles and several uprooted trees, the residential area was unharmed.

In response to a petition from the Business and Professional Women's Club and other civic groups, the City Council passed an ordinance on July 11, 1927, renaming 15 northeast-southwest streets which had been designated previously by consecutive alphabet.

A tornado tore through portions of St. Louis, East St. Louis, Venice and Madison in the early afternoon of Sept. 29, 1927.

Near Granite City, it swerved east, destroyed the "pig room" of the St. Louis Coke and Iron Plant and overturned a ladle of molten iron on seven workers. Only one survived.

Two persons were killed in Venice and property losses there totaled $250,000. Several persons were injured in Madison and about 50 houses were damaged. Granite Cityans raised $16,000 for victims of the disaster.

Among the athletes who entered C. C. (Cash and Carry) Pyle's fantastic Transcontinental Footrace in February 1928 was Frank Johnson, a coremaker, at the Commonwealth Steel Plant.

Johnson ran well forward in the pack until an infected stone bruise compelled him to slow down. By March, he was in seventh-seventh place. He continued to hobble along until he reached Moriarty, New Mexico, 921 miles from the starting point. There he dropped out, one ankle swollen twice its normal size.

On March 12, 1928, citizens passed a bond issue to build an annex of the community high school; in the next month, they defeated a bond issue to refund the city debt and to build a new city hall.

Re-submitted at an election on June 13, the latter proposal carried by what the Press-Record described as "an astounding majority." Construction of the high school annex and the city hall got under way in summer.

General Steel Castings Corporation, a subsidiary of the Baldwin Locomotive Co., American Locomotive Co. and American Steel Foundries, bought the Commonwealth Steel Co. in April 1929. The price was said to be $35,000,000.

Chosen as chairman of the new company's board of directors, Clarence Howard served one year and then resigned because of ill health.

On Dec. 6, 1931, he died at the Christian Science Sanatorium in Boston, Mass.

The Commonwealth's new owners gradually discarded some of the policies in which Howard had delighted. They closed the commissary in August 1935, and sold its stock to local merchants.

Following the death of Miss Sophia Prather in December 1936, the social welfare program for residents of Lincoln Place was abandoned. In May 1938, the company gave the Lincoln Place Community House to the Granite City Park District.

Next: The "threadbare thirties."

Mayor Sasyk said further attempts will be made to meet with the Vatterott interests, and a session to include council members may be arranged for tomorrow.

The council was informed that the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission has approved grants of $23,575 and $8,550 to update the police department and provide for full time juvenile and investigative officers.

Mayor Sasyk said that the crime rate is diminishing in the city, and that during the first half of this year, 14 of 225 crimes have been solved. He said a 20% rate is about the norm in most municipalities.

The council approved sole bids from Midwest Blacktop Roads Inc. of $5,240 for 25,000 gallons of road oil and $5,373 for 900 tons of chips. The material will be used in oiling alleys.

responsibility for the remaining central sector.

They also would have joint responsibility to act as agents for the Council for development of further decentralization and for recommendations on evaluations.

Transfer of Duties

By the end of June, 34 central or system units had been transferred to the chancellors, six had been assigned tentatively but were marked for further study, and the future status of nine units and seven functions had not been determined.

It was estimated that as much as one-year might be needed to decentralize such operations as alumni service, foundation administration, international education, budget office, data processing and computing center, institutional research office, treasurer and auditing.

Numerous other questions call for continuing study. Included will be identification of possible responsibilities or functions which in the interest of the University system can best be carried out on a centralized basis.

Steps on Glassing, Hurt
Upon leaving a Bi-State bus at 22nd and Benton streets, Dorothy McCallister, 2204 State St., she stepped on a piece of glass from a broken bottle and suffered a one-inch laceration to the instep of her left foot, it was reported at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday. She was driven home by a passing motorist.

Fire Damages Basement
Fire caused an estimated $125 damage to the basement of the home of David Drennan, Box 7089 Meadow Lane, Mitchell, at 11:35 a.m. Wednesday. Mitchell firemen said that the sump pump apparently overheated and ignited a can of gasoline nearby.

Little Miss Jubilee Is To Be Named

Plans were made last night by the Granite City Diamond Jubilee executive committee to sponsor a Little Miss Jubilee contest.

Details are to be announced at a kickoff meeting to be held this month. Girls aged three to 12 will be eligible.

Conferring at the park office with Robert McCrary of the Rogers Co., the group also decided to encourage wearing of jubilee straw hats, vests and ties by men as well as old-fashioned dresses by women.

McCrary will assist General Chairman Barry Loman in coordinating the business phase of the jubilee, and also will direct a pageant in which several hundred costumed actors will participate. Proceeds will go to a local civic improvement.

The Diamond Jubilee will open Aug. 21, with final events occurring Aug. 29.

A 1969 graduate of Granite City High School, Marine Recruit Duckworth has volunteered to serve three years in the U.S. Marine Corps. He attended Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus for 1½ years prior to being employed at Propellor Corp. of Edwardsville.

Cityman and chorus director; John Galloway, who founded the area chapter; Brian A. Kane, assistant chorus director; and Wayne Bradshaw, current chapter president. No admission will be charged to attend the concert.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY CHORUS, Collinsville Chapter, whose members will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the second "Music Under the Stars" concert of the 1971 summer season at the Wilson Park rink pavilion. The 34-chorus chorus includes men from Granite City, Edwardsville, Maryville, Troy, Belleville and Collinsville and is part of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Inc. Local adults and young people also will appear in the admission-free show under the direction of Raymond Voorhees, program director.

Barbershop Harmony at Park Concert Tuesday

Adding to an enjoyable evening of entertainment planned for patrons who attend the second "Music Under the Stars" concert Tuesday evening in Wilson Park will be the harmonious 34-voice Mississippi Valley Chorus and one of the group's quartets—the Arch Rivals.

Raymond Voorhees, director of the outdoor music series, sponsored by the Granite City Park District, said today the Collinsville Chapter of the Mississippi Valley Chorus will join with local "Music Under the Stars" performers in presenting the 8 o'clock show Tuesday evening at the Wilson Park rink pavilion. Admission is free.

Local performers who appear in the summer concert program include grade school pupils, junior and senior high students and adults, Voorhees said. The principal choral groups made their debut last week at the park district's 50th anniversary celebration and Fourth of July festival.

The Collinsville Chapter rapidly grew to its present 34 members, Galloway noted. Included in the group are Granite Cityans—Tom Farrington, Dave John, Emmet Carraher, B. O. Bodman, Richard Branding, George Chapman, Richard Pich, Dennis McCann, Joe Siebert and Walter Mierisch.

Chapter members meet every Monday at 8 p.m. in the Collinsville Building and Loan, 321 E. Belt Line, Collinsville. Galloway said that membership is open to males, 18 years and over, with an ability to carry a tune.

"A man does not need to be a soloist, or have sung with a group of any kind before and does not have to be able to read music to be accepted as a member," he pointed out.

The chorus to perform here Tuesday night is directed by George Holtzsch, formerly of Granite City, who now resides in Collinsville. While attending school here, he was active in local musical programs.

Has Masters Degree
The director holds bachelor and masters degrees from Southern Illinois University-

Carbondale campus and presently is an audiologist at Washington University School of Medicine.

Holtzsch is assisted in directing the chorus by Brian A. Kane, who is a student at SIU-SW majoring in music education. He is a native of Chicago and previously directed a barbershop chapter there.

Galloway, Holtzsch and Kane are members of the Arch Rivals Quartet. The other member is Wayne Bradshaw, current president of the Collinsville Chapter.

The quartet will be spotlighted at Tuesday's outdoor concert, Voorhees said.

Rose Bowl Fire Loss $200,000

Damage to the Rose Bowl Restaurant from fire was estimated at $200,000 by owner Charles Hester this week.

The popular nightclub and restaurant was gutted Saturday afternoon and firemen described the building as "a total loss."

Hester toured the ruins with insurance adjusters Tuesday afternoon and said that until an insurance settlement is reached, he could not say when, or if, he will rebuild.

"I will let you know as soon as I decide because I want my employees' and customers to know immediately," Hester told the Press-Record.

He said that he had planned to redecorate the second floor, making it into a banquet room.

"Now I just don't know what will happen," he commented. Hester was owner and operator of the Rose Bowl the past three years and lived in quarters on the second floor. He was away from the building at the time of the fire.

The blaze began in the kitchen area shortly before the restaurant was to open. Five employees escaped without injury.

State Orders Swim Pool Closed at Gaslight Walk

The state Department of Public Health has requested the Madison County state's attorney to enforce a closing order for the swimming pool at Gaslight Walk Apartments. Two others were ordered closed in Springfield and Elmwood Park.

Madison County State's Attorney R. W. Griffith was asked by Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, department director, to enforce a closing order issued to the Gaslight Walk Apartments for operating without a permit.

Owners of the Gaslight Walk pool were informed last November that there were deficiencies in construction of the pool which would result in an unsanitary operation and constitute a serious health hazard to anyone using the pool.

At the time, Dr. Yoder ordered that the pool not be placed in operation until deficiencies were corrected and written approval to reopen was issued by the department. On July 1, state inspectors discovered the pool was in use, officials said.

right, slides into the race car of Chuck Taylor in the third turn, throwing Taylor's car out of control. In the next photo, Taylor's sprinter strikes the rear of Chuck Wooten's Apollo 11 car which leaves the track surface and flips in the air as Roy Hibbard, bottom left, escapes safely on the inside. In the third picture, Wooten's car lands upside down and rolls upright (fourth photo). Wooten walked away from the mishap but Taylor was hospitalized.

Cycles, Sprints, Stocks At Speedway Tomorrow

A new type of racing will be added to the weekly races at the Tri-City Speedway tomorrow night as the unlimited motorcycles join the super-sprint cars and the late model stocks for a triple-header event.

The professional American Motorcycle Assn. riders hail from as far as California and Florida and will be competing for $1,000, the largest purse ever offered in the Midwest for a motorcycle event.

The unlimited cycles, some bearing engines as large as 1,200 cubic centimeters, reach speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour in the straightaways of the half-mile dirt oval.

The top cycle races in the country are expected to be drawn by the high purse, including Gene Romero of Los Angeles, Calif., national No. 1, the Grand National Champion, and Gary Scott, national No. 2.

The event will mark the first time the cycles, sprints and stocks have ever been matched in a triple header at the speedway.

The top runners in the super sprints are expected, including track leader Bill Utz of Sedalia, Mo., who has accumulated 1,300 points; Bobby Jones of Danville, Ill., with 1,250 points and Wyo Spalding of Pontoon Beach with 1,240.

Chuck Amati of Greenfield, Tenn., also has indicated he will compete. About 35 super sprints are expected to qualify.

In the late model stocks, Bill Myers of Rosewood Heights Presbyterians 11-5 in Church Softball League action Tuesday night at Wilson Park.

The big blow came off the bats of Ray Yount, Mike Schleicher, Steve Underwood and Don O'Hara. A home run by Larry Harmon for Freshman was wasted. Grace led the hitting 25-20.

Bethel Evangelical defeated Niedringhaus Methodist 9-2 as Carl Sontag tagged a triple. Bethel out-hit Niedringhaus 19-10.

Central Christian forfeited its game to 1st Assembly of God.

With the aid of four triples, Grace Baptist dunked Nameoki Presbyterians 11-5 in Church Softball League action Tuesday night at Wilson Park.

Midget Race Sunday Night At Speedway

A special open sanction midget car racing program will be held at the Tri-City Speedway Sunday night with a full lineup of midgets expected.

The program will feature qualifying, a five-lap trophy dash, three-lap lap heat races, a 10-lap semi-feature event and a 20-lap feature, all on the half-mile track, for a guaranteed purse of $1,200. All events will be run in an inverted order with the fastest cars starting at the rear of the pack.

Twenty-four cars were reported registered for the program this morning, including Bert Wilson of Kirksville, Mo., the Missouri state midget champion, and Ronnie Taylor, the Others competing will be Bobby Jones of Danville, Ill.; Larry Kirkpatrick of Wood River, Laque Yount of St. Louis, Bill Burks Jr. of Marion, Ill.; Chuck Taylor of Rosewood Heights, Chuck Weyant of Springfield, Ill.; Danne Frye Jr. of Florissant, Mo.; Duke Duroso of Springfield, and others.

At the Capital City Speedway Saturday in Jefferson City, 43 midgets participated in the program and most of the drivers indicated they would enter Sunday's race here.

Qualifications will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the first race is scheduled for 8:30.

Qualifying for the super-sprints and the stocks will begin at 7 p.m. and the first races are set for 8:30. Motorcycle qualifying heats will be run during the regular intermission with the 10-lap expert feature following.

Keen Rides Motorcycle To Victory

Neel Keen of St. Louis made a clean sweep of the evening at the Tuesday night motorcycle races at the Tri-City Speedway, earning the fastest qualifying time and winning his heat, his semi-feature and the feature event.

The evening's events were marred by two accidents, one in each semi-feature. Dan Doolin of Florissant, Mo., lost control of his cycle and dropped in the second turn. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where x-rays were taken and he was released. The event was called after eight laps because of the incident.

In the second semi-feature, a first-time rider dropped his machine and suffered lacerations to his head but declined hospitalization. Randy Ackerson of Mexico, Mo., won that race.

In the feature race, Ackerson jumped to the lead but was passed in the second lap by Gordon Dunsenberry of Wichita, Kan. On the third lap, Keen passed for the lead and held that position the remaining seven laps. Dunsenberry finished second and Preston Windom of Peoria, a rookie, was third.

The cost of travel some nine months of each year is rising about as steadily as pro tour purse money, especially if the players take their families along part of the time.

To combat this, a growing number of pros are traveling by car or in campers and auto trailers when the distances between tournaments is not too great — especially those who aren't winning consistently.

Riches of Golf Tour Attracting Young Pros

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

The golden professional golf tour has attracted so many young players in the big ones or four years that managing it is tougher than keeping things jumping in a three-ring circus.

This is the consensus among the top pros who will talk about it. Some insist it isn't their problem, but that of the Professional Golfers' Association of America which sponsors most of the big events.

But outspoken money winners like Bob Murphy and Ken Still seem eager to explain the problems created by the horde of gold which grows larger each year and draws new competitors to the tour.

In interviews during the MONY Tournament of Champions at La Costa, Calif., each of these tournament winners agreed that the splitting of pro golfers into two leagues—similar to those in pro baseball and basketball—would be no solution at all.

They have different ideas, however, about how the satellite tournament system is working for the little-known pros who seldom qualify for the big money competition.

As for the two-league golf tour, Still says it has been discussed among the pros as locker room talk but isn't being taken seriously. And PGA officials aren't buying it so far as a way to ease the overcrowded pro tour ranks.

Murphy is even less enthusiastic about the proposal.

"Pro tour golfers in a way are independent businessmen who work seven days a week, even though they have no glassed-in office or a swivel chair," says the portly, 215-pounder who took home $120,039 in prize money last year.

"Splitting us into two leagues wouldn't work. It would be cumbersome and would only confuse the sponsors who finance the tournaments."

"Each of us is playing strictly for ourselves. There is fine sportsmanship most of the time, yes, but nobody has found a way to form pro golf teams and still allow the superior golfers to continue earning the money they take home today."

Still says the satellite tournaments, conducted for players who fail to qualify for the big ones, "seem to be working out all right."

But Murphy disagrees. He points out sponsors refuse to put up fat purses for golfers who can't score well enough to compete in the regular tour tournaments, on grounds they don't attract enough public attention as a sort of second-string sideshow to the main event.

Moreover, there is no week-end television time available for the satellite tournaments. Even if there were, the big advertisers would hesitate to pay the high rates for prime week-end time, Murphy points out.

Consequently, while each year a few more satellite tournaments show up on the schedule, there still aren't nearly enough to keep the second-string pros busy week after week.

Murphy says the problem lies in the pro tour's population explosion.

Lt. Gov. Simon Assails Highway Bond Program

Illinois Lieutenant Governor Paul Simon charged Tuesday that a $4.8 billion highway bond issue which the state administration has launched "violates economic common sense, distorts priorities, and mars the fiscal future."

Simon said interest on the bonds "will cost approximately $4.2 billion — or a total of $9 billion including principal — and that paying it off will force huge tax increases." His remarks came in an address to the Wheaton Lions Club.

Boys Playing Ball May Lose Life

Dorothy Ely, 1601 Kirkpatrick Homes, reported at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday that while about 20 boys were playing in a nearby field, a ball went through a window of her apartment.

She said that none seemed to know who hit it, but several of the boys cleaned up the glass in her apartment. She was advised to ask authorities to prohibit ball playing on the field.

Traffic Accident Death Ratio at All-Time High

A record high traffic fatality ratio due to accidents in the Quad-City area, or involving local residents killed in mishaps on other localities, was established for the first half of this year, a compilation of statistics by the Press-Record showed today.

An additional traffic fatality record was set for the month of June when ten persons were killed or injured fatally. Ten traffic deaths during June represented an increase of seven over the three persons killed in mishaps during May, and an increase of nine over the number of traffic fatalities during June a year ago.

The June traffic deaths brought to 29 the total number of such fatalities during the first six months of 1971, compared to 13 during the first half of 1970, and a total of nine during the first half of 1969.

Exceeds Full-Year Total

The six-month total exceeds by seven the total of 22 traffic fatalities occurring during the entire 12-month period of 1970. If the same ratio were to continue, the Quad-City area could expect an all-time record of approximately 58 deaths due to traffic mishaps by the end of this year.

Nearest approach in any one month to the June fatality record of ten deaths was nine occurring in July 1970, records show. Nine persons also died in traffic accidents in June 1969, while eight fatalities occurred in the month of October, 1969.

In addition to exceeding the full 12-month fatality total of 22 victims during 1970, the 29 traffic deaths reported for the first half of this year also exceed the full year's total number of traffic deaths in 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1961, 1960, 1959, 1958, 1957, 1956 and 1955.

The previous record of traffic deaths during a one-year period was set in 1954 when 44 persons were killed. During that year, however, 16 fatalities were reported during the first six months, or 13 less than reported for the first six months of this year.

168 June Accidents

Traffic accident statistics show a total of 168 accidents occurred in the Quad-City area during June, bringing the total for the first half of the year to 1010. A total of 101 persons was injured during June, bringing to 480 the total number of persons hurt in mishaps during the six-month period.

The 101 injury cases reported during June was the highest for any one month so far this year, but the six-month total of 480 injuries is 161 less than 641 injuries reported for the same period of 1970. The total of 1010 accidents for the six-months of this year is a reduction of 285 below the total for the first half of 1970.

Accident statistics for the first half of this year, listing accidents, injuries and fatalities, in that order, show:

January, 167-71-6; February, 150-56-1; March, 169-78-7; April, 157-84-2; May, 199-90-3; June, 168-101-10.

Council to Probe Sick Leave Program

The present sick leave program of the city of Granite City will be investigated under a decision of the city council reached Tuesday night after a majority of aldermen agreed that the plan as it is now operated is "being abused."

Thomas Baker, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, presented sick leave costs for the past month, then told the council:

"The rising costs of sick leave for city employees calls for closer scrutiny by this council. Under the present system, I will not be responsible (as Finance chairman) for making future motions for approval of sick leave pay."

Mayor Donald Parney said the present system is unfair in that a city employee injured in the line of duty, such as a fireman hurt in recent firefighting activities are fully entitled to sick pay, while others "conveniently call in sick on Friday, or Monday, to get a three-day holiday over the weekend."

Alderman Walter Nona suggested "the only way to cure this is to provide for a one or two-day period without pay for the first days for which illness is reported."

The problem was referred to Baker's committee for further study.

One of them was known, one was described as being tall and wearing a felt hat with a large brim, and the other was short with blonde hair.

Madison Youth Recycling Group Starts Daily Service

Cooperation from the entire community is being sought by a group of young people who will collect newspapers, glass and cans for recycling on a six-day operation schedule, starting Monday.

C. A. "Bud" MacMillan, executive director of the Coordinated Youth Services, today announced the CYS Youth Environmental Committee will accept newspapers, glass and cans for recycling between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 a.m. Monday through Saturday at Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

Area residents wishing to take part in the "Help Save the Environment" program are asked to bring the items to be recycled to a truck which will be parked in the shopping center parking area. A large banner will be affixed to the truck for easy identification, MacMillan said.

Materials to be recycled should be packaged in the following manner, the CYS director said:

Newspapers: Tie in bundles, place in grocery bags, or stack in cardboard boxes. Telephone books, catalogs and magazines cannot be accepted for recycling.

Cans: Rinse well and remove labels and ends. Place ends inside can and flatten can. (Beer cans have one removable end; place it inside can and flatten as much as possible.)

Glass (bottles or containers only): Rinse well and remove lid. Remove metal ring attached to neck of some bottles. Remove glass and flatten can. (Beer cans have one removable end; place it inside can and flatten as much as possible.)

Pianists in Spotlight At Opening Concerts of Music Festival Season

Pianists Van Cliburn and Jeffrey Siegel will be featured with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at the opening weekend concerts of the 1971 Mississippi River Festival at Southern Illinois University's Southwestern campus this weekend.

Cliburn will appear with the orchestra at 8:30 p.m. Saturday under the baton of Walter Susskind, music director of the Festival and conductor and music director of the orchestra.

Siegel will perform with the orchestra at 7:30 p.m. Sunday under the direction of Leonard Slatkin, the orchestra's assistant conductor.

Fourth Appearance
Cliburn will be returning for his fourth appearance with the orchestra.

A favorite performer of audiences throughout the world, he began studying piano as a child under the tutelage of his mother, herself a talented pianist. In 1951, he left his home in Kilgore, Tex., to study at the Juilliard School of Music with Mme. Rosina Lhevinne. Upon graduation, he received the Frank Damrosch Scholarship.

Although Cliburn was known to the musical world in 1959 when he went to Moscow to participate in the Tchaikovsky Competition, he was almost unknown to the public. The young pianist's acclaim in Russia caused his reputation to grow rapidly.

In the years since, Cliburn has not only managed the difficult task of living up to his own fame, but also has become an artist of which his country can be exceedingly proud, music critics say.

Greg Concerto
The Saturday evening program will include Wagner's Meistersinger Prelude, Schubert's Symphony No. 2 and Cliburn's performance of Grieg's Piano Concerto.

Young Jeffrey Siegel studied with a former conductor and musical director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Rudolph Ganz. Siegel was awarded from the Juilliard School of Music and won a Fulbright Scholarship for study in England.

He has been the recipient of many music awards and competitions, including the Queen Elisabeth Competition in Brussels, Belgium, in 1968.

Siegel has been presented in a number of recitals throughout the United States, Europe, Canada and South Africa, and also has appeared as soloist with orchestras in England and the United States.

Classics in the Films
The Sunday evening program featuring Siegel will be devoted to "The Classics in the Films." It will consist of Bach-Stokowski's Toccata and Fugue from "Fantasia";

R. Strauss' Theme from "Also Sprach Zarathustra," Liszt's Atmosphères, and R. Strauss' Blue Danube Waltz (all from "2001");

Gershwin's Suite from "Porgy and Bess";

And Siegel's performance of Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 21 (from "Elvira Madigan").

Circus Dinner Party
The opening night concert Saturday will be preceded by a circus-theme dinner party beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Festival site.

Entertainment will include clowns, animals and acrobats. The dinner menu will feature Big Top Fillet of Chicken Breast and other specially concocted circus-theme food delights.

Tickets to the opening night party are $6 per person and may be purchased in person at the Powell Symphony Hall box office, 718 North Grand Blvd., St. Louis, or at the University Center box office on the Southwestern campus of SIU.

Concert tickets, ranging in price from $2 to $5.50, may be purchased at these box offices or at the American National Bank in Granite City or the Collinsville Chamber of Commerce.

24-Concert Schedule
The six Saturday night Festival programs will feature concerts by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, the first four to be conducted by Walter Susskind, music director of the Festival and conductor and music director of the Orchestra.

In addition to Van Cliburn, other artists to be featured at Saturday concerts are guitarist Angel Romero July 17, soprano Marilyn Horne July 24, conductor Morton Gould Aug. 7 and Leonard Slatkin, assistant conductor of the orchestra, and pianist Leonard Pennario, Aug. 14.

Susskind will conduct a musical tribute to George Szell and Sir John Barbirolli July 31. The Sunday schedule includes Henry Mancini July 18, Doc Severinsen July 25, Morton Gould Aug. 1, Arlan Fiedler and Ruth Slenczynska Aug. 8 and Andre Kostelanetz and Max Rabinovitch Aug. 15.

Other guest artists will be Jose Greco and Company July 13, Judy Collins July 15, Buddy Miles July 20, John Hartford and Earl Scruggs July 27, a "rock and roll revival" July 29, Ike and Tina Turner July 30, Ferrante and Teicher Aug. 2, Rod Stewart and Faces with Matthew's Southern Comfort Aug. 4, Jesus Christ Superstar Aug. 5, Roberta Flack with Robert King Aug. 10, Carlos Montoya Aug. 12 and The Who Aug. 15.

Tax Collections Under Way in Area Township

Tax collections were under way today in the offices of all four town collectors of the Quad-City area, with two of the collectors expected to complete their collection periods on July 16.

Paul Rutledge, Granite City treasurer and town collector, said yesterday that a total of $239,400 in 1970 taxes has been paid into his office during the six days of the current collection period. The Granite City collections began June 26.

Rutledge said collections at the city hall here will continue through Aug. 13 to collect the $9,621,739 billed against Granite City taxpayers for the 1970 tax year.

Tax collections began Tuesday at the office of Venice Collector Frank Reidelberger, Jr. at Fourth Street and Madison Avenue in Madison. A cutoff date for Venice collections has not been set, Reidelberger said.

Named township collectors are paying bills at the First Granite City National Bank and will be able to make payments there through July 15, according to Collector Edgar Patrick. Patrick said he has been concerned about the large number of tax bill mailings that were returned this year because of faulty addresses.

Nameki township taxpayers who failed to receive a bill in the mail may obtain data concerning their billing by calling 331-6331, Patrick said.

Chouteau Township Collector Charles Leow said his office will continue tax collections through July 16. On that date only, payments also will be received at the Mitchell Water District office, 745 E. Chain of Rocks Road, he said.

Granite City was requested in its meeting Tuesday night to pay a bill of $1,979 for alleged damages to the home of Bernard Scaturro, 810 Madison Road, as a result of the city's Nameki area sewer repair program more than a year ago.

Robert P. Hennessey, attorney, informed the council that unless he hears from the city in 14 days, he will file legal proceedings to recover the cost of damages caused by a sewer repair program in the vicinity of Scaturro's home. The matter was referred to City Attorney Leon Scroggins.

WARRANTS FOR ARREST are served on Morris Campbell, president of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, during regular board meeting yesterday in East St. Louis. Campbell was arrested on three counts of theft by Sgt. Charles Greer of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department, standing.

MORE ABOUT Council

fied the city clerk that he was ill.

Robertson's notice that he would be absent from the meeting said that "if I were to be there, and the budget is presented, I would vote against it." He was chairman of the Finance Committee last year and was a controversial figure in city finance problems throughout the year.

Following approval of a "differential" salary for Teller, the council also okayed additional raises for a clerk in the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens and for an assistant city inspector, all of which were to correct the lack of previous raises and therefore were in addition to the across-the-board increase of $50 per month.

Oppose Action on Budget

Boker then made an effort to read the budget to place it on final passage, but this action brought opposition from several aldermen who said the salary raises were only a part of the additional cost, that "fringe benefits" also will play an important part in the final bill the city will have to pay during its current fiscal year beginning May 1 this year. All of the increases proposed Tuesday night, except the "differential" adjustments, are retroactive to May 1.

Before Boker could present the budget figures, Alderman Sam Whitmer said, "I want to know where we stand on fringes (sick leave, insurance, vacations and other items) since these all mean money." Whitmer asked what negotiations had been made concerning longevity standards.

Alderman Walter Nonn remarked that "This $50 is only a part of the bill. It is not nearly all of the cost."

Whitmer asked that the "whole package" be brought in so that the council would have an idea of the overall cost.

Boker, who also is chairman of the Special Negotiating Committee, said he hoped to wind up figures on the fringe benefits this week and would send a copy to all of the aldermen before the next meeting, which will be held July 19.

Nonn Opposes Bill

On a roll call motion to approve the ordinance for the $50 per month salary increase, Nonn voted against the proposal, both on a motion to suspend the rules for final passage, and again on final passage.

Boker then announced he would delay presenting the budget for final adoption until council members had an opportunity during the next two weeks to study results of negotiations on fringe benefits.

Mayor Partney, however, told the council:

"You have submitted a budget of $3,812,843. Our overall projected income for the current year is $2,581,306 in funds necessary to general fund operation. At the end of the last fiscal year (April 30) we had balances of $506,826 which gives us a total projected income of $3,088,132."

The mayor said that after tax revenue for separate tax accounts such as the library, police and fire pensions, auditing and arterial maintenance is deducted, the city has just about enough money to meet the budget.

"But," he warned, "what you have failed to take into account is the fact the budget is based on the period of May 1 to April 30. . . . What you consider as enough to meet the budget to next May 1 is not enough to meet the cost of operation from the end of the fiscal year (April 30, 1972) until new tax collections are available in July. You have three months operations at a cost of more than $400,000 that are not accounted for."

ARC Board to Meet

The board of directors of the Tri-City American Red Cross Chapter will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the First Granite City National Bank, Joe W. Smith, chapter chairman, announced today.

Grocery Burglarized

Police on routine patrol this morning noticed that the glass in the front door of Stanley's Market, 1101 Greenwood Ave., had been broken with a brick and the building had been entered. An estimated $40 worth of merchandise was taken.

Office Ransacked

Officials of Nelson Construction Co. told police at 1:50 p.m. Tuesday that the office at the Broadway underpass project had been entered and ransacked during the night. Keys to several trucks and a crane were taken.

INFORM A FRIEND OF YOUR VACATION WHEREABOUTS

Before you leave on vacation—especially for parts unknown—tell a friend where you're going and when you plan to return. Should you not come home as scheduled, that person can start looking for you and check on your safety. But if you decide to extend your trip, be sure to inform your friend.

MISS M. KATHLEEN LEWIS, who will become the bride of Marine Private Raymond David Schaus.

Kathleen Lewis to Wed in Spring

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert G. Lewis Jr., 2833 Madison Ave., have just announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss M. Kathleen Lewis, to Marine Private Raymond David Schaus, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Schaus, 2106 E. 24th St. The bride-to-be, a 1970 graduate of the Granite City High School, is presently employed by the A & P Food Store and is attending SIU-SW.

Morris-Grady Wedding At Calvary Baptist

The wedding of Miss Ida Jean Grady, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie J. Grady, 3025 Warren Ave., and Specialist Four Dennis Ray Morris, U. S. Army, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dagon, 3845 B St., took place Monday at Calvary Baptist Church.

The Rev. William L. Shivers officiated at the 7 o'clock ceremony and a reception was held afterward in the church fellowship hall. The sanctuary was decorated with summer flowers. A program of wedding music was provided by Miss Brenda Bivens, organist, and Monty Kindel, soloist. The songs were "Together," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The highrize waist of Chantilly lace had a ruffled neckline. It was trimmed with miniature lace scalloping and the long sleeves were gathered at the wrists, ending in ruffles. The free flowing A-line skirt was scattered down the front with lace motifs and crystals. A full court train was attached at the highrize waistline and richly sprinkled with matching lace and crystals.

A petal headpiece of seed pearls and lace enhanced with crystals held in place a shoulder-length tiered veil of imported illusion. White carnations made up the bride's cascade bouquet with ribbon streamers.

Miss Cindy Grady, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor, and Miss Colleen Dagon, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Kathy Morris, a sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids. The attendants wore identical gowns of aqua chiffon over tulle. Free flowing colonial skirts were attached to the bodices, styled with round necks finished with rows of ruffled lace. The long, full sleeves were gathered at the wrists and trimmed with ruffles of lace. More of the lace encircled the skirts.

Completing their costumes were picture hats of white with matching aqua ribbon bands. The brims of the hats were turned up in the back and held in place with aqua bows. They carried colonial bouquets of aqua carnations and white daisies with streamers.

Christy Cornett, flower girl, was dressed like the older girls and carried a basket of white rose petals. An aqua bow was in her hair.

The bridegroom had his brother, Jeff Morris, as best man, and groomsmen and ushers included John and Bill Grady, brothers of the bride, David Cornett and Myron Miller.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Grady wore a street-length dress of pink, a matching lace coat, white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a yellow dress, matching accessories and white carnations with yellow trim.

The former Miss Grady, a 1969 graduate of the Granite City High School, holds a secretarial position with the Automated Logistics Management System Agency in St. Louis. The bridegroom, also a 1969 graduate of the local high school, is stationed at Fort Hamilton, N. Y.

PATRIOTIC THEME AT TRIO UNIT MEETING

The July meeting of the Trio Unit, Madison County Home-Makers Extension Association, took place Tuesday at Hope Lutheran Church. Mrs. Florence Rapp, first vice-chairman, conducted the meeting and reports were given.

Plans were made for a family picnic to be held in August at the home of Mrs. Shirley Schilling of Rural Route One. Mrs. Ellen Ozanich gave the health lesson on "Shock." A guest, Marianna Yevin, a member of the 38'ers 4-H Club, spoke to the homemakers concerning her attendance at 4-H Week events held at the University of Illinois.

The major lesson of the day, "Clothing for the Mature Woman," was presented by Mrs. Ada Matras and Mrs. Marie Cook.

Honorary hosts were Mrs. Peggy Bargel and Mrs. Lucy Stewart. A red, white and blue theme prevailed and the centerpiece was an arrangement of daisies complemented by the holiday colors. The American eagle and patriotic shield were included on the table and napkins.

Four guests attending included Miss Yevin and her mother, Mrs. Mary M. Yevin, and Mrs. Genevieve McComis and Mrs. Janet Goeller.

Members present, in addition to those named, were Mesdames Ruth Braye, Edna Bueger, Ivan Granklanoff, Emma Jakich, Naomi Kinney, Julie Fritz, Golda Thornburg and Naomi Chapman.

Levee Board President Arrested During Meeting

Morris Campbell, a Democratic leader in the waning machine organization of former Mayor Alvin G. Fields of East St. Louis and president of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department board of trustees, was arrested yesterday morning during a regular levee board meeting.

The move came just a few minutes after the levee board had convened in regular session as the result of a circuit court ruling the previous afternoon in which Circuit Judge Howard Lewis granted an injunction at Belleville preventing the newly-elected board of trustees from taking office.

Campbell had just called the meeting to order when two deputies of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department walked in to the meeting room. Sgt. Charles Greer walked to the head of the table and handed Campbell a sheet of papers. "You are under arrest," Greer said. He leaned over Campbell, who was seated, and spread out the papers in front of the levee board president. Greer explained Campbell was charged on three counts of theft. Campbell looked at the papers and rose.

The levee board president, a long-time controversial figure in East St. Louis machine politics, followed Greer out of the meeting room. He moved from room to room in the levee district offices as members of the news media sought to talk with him, then left the building with the deputies.

The other members of the board, George Duff and Lawrence Tolar of East St. Louis, Mike Ebersoldt of Venice, apparently were surprised by the action. They approved routine bills, then adjourned the meeting until Monday.

Because of the convictions, Illinois Governor Richard B. Ogilvie maintained the present four members of the levee board automatically were removed from office. He ordered a special election resulting in the naming of a new five-man board Tuesday.

That board met in the levee district offices last week, organized by electing a president, then planned to meet Wednesday at the same time the old board was to meet. The old board has four members because of the death in 1969 of Joseph Grant of Granite City, the other Madison county representative on the board.

Last week John J. Hoban, a levee district attorney representing the members of the board, filed injunction proceedings to prevent members of the newly-elected board from taking office. That plea was granted by Judge Whit.

Campbell already is under indictment on a charge of perjury in connection with a deal which he made with Dakin Williams of Collinsville to procure petition signatures in a congressional election campaign, and also is charged with theft in connection with payments allegedly made by the city of Alton for equipment rental to Campbell, but for which no records allegedly can be found at the levee district.

Rice said the charges concern checks issued in the name of a former employee of the levee district, Robert Eastern, a Democratic precinct committeeman of East St. Louis Precinct One. According to Rice, Eastern claims he did not receive checks issued in his name after he went off the payroll. The checks issued in Eastern's name, approximately nearly $900, bore Eastern's name and were countersigned by Campbell, Rice said. Eastern claims he did not receive the money.

Campbell claims he cashed some checks turned over to him by Eastern in repayment of a loan. Apparently no one attending the levee district meeting Wednesday morning anticipated the interference of the St. Clair county sheriff's deputies. The possibility of political implications was seen in the fact that the deputies insisted that Campbell accompany them, or "if we have to pick you up, we will."

Meanwhile, the Belleville circuit court Tuesday afternoon, upheld an injunction plea by the existing levee board members to prevent the newly elected board from taking office.

Development of New Industry Discussed

Chester L. Baker, president of the Tri-City Printing Co. and charter president of the Illinois Metro-East Industrial Development Corp., reviewed progress of the development group in an address to Granite City Rotarians Tuesday.

The corporation, which is preparing to hire an executive director, has published many reports and maps helpful in attracting new and expanded industry, Baker said. He was introduced by William Mehl, Albert H. Froemling, new Rotary president, presided as the 1971-72 year began.

After Air and Water Pollution, State Will Look at Solid Waste Disposal, Excess Noise

In a detailed report newly completed, David P. Currie, chairman of the Illinois Pollution Control Board, has summarized the board's efforts to protect the environment in its first year of operations. It has been a busy year.

The report outlines the board's rule-making activities of the past year and reviews the decisions rendered by the board in its capacity as an administrative court for pollution cases.

First priority of the board in its initial year has been the adoption of detailed air and water pollution standards.

The report notes that lengthy hearings on these matters have been held and that, once such regulations are adopted, Illinois will have "a complete and coherent set of rules and regulations in these vital areas."

The board then expects to turn its attention to the relatively unexplored fields of noise pollution and solid waste disposal.

The report specifically notes that, in the area of air pollution control, the board has strengthened emergency episode air pollution controls.

It also has proposed new standards to limit the emissions of sulfur oxides, particulate matter (dust), carbon monoxide, hydro-carbons, photochemical oxidants (smog-producing) and nitrogen oxides.

In addition, a proposal to outlaw asbestos contamination has been authorized for hearings and studies are being prepared on cadmium, mercury, lead, beryllium and hydrogen sulfide.

Illinois' efforts in the area of water pollution control, the report notes, have been aggressive and extensive.

Strict mercury discharge and phosphate effluent standards have been set and a sweeping, comprehensive set of water quality standards has been proposed and now is under consideration.

The standards would protect all the waters of Illinois, except certain Chicago-area transportation channels, for all uses including recreational and drinking-water supply.

The board, the report notes, has set strict thermal standards for Lake Michigan effectively prohibiting the future construction of any large heat source along the lake shore—and has also proposed regulations to require the regionalization of sewage works to insure maximum environmental protection without wasting money.

Furthermore, the board has adopted regulations which advance the deadlines for the provision of secondary treatment facilities along the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers so that no major Illinois community will fail to provide this base level of treatment by the end of 1973.

More than half the report is devoted to a review of significant decisions rendered by the board in its first year.

More than 200 cases, it is noted, have been filed, including variance requests and enforcement actions.

Cases have ranged from simple tree-burning matters to the complexities of overloaded multi-plant sanitary district systems; from actions against sole-proprietor landfill operations to permit cases involving the discharge of radioactive wastes from major nuclear-powered generating facilities.

Currie notes that the board has imposed a monetary penalty in the amount of $18,000 in one case and has issued cease and desist orders and required the posting of substantial security or performance bonds in many others.

New Taxes Needed, City Council Told

New Taxes for Granite taxpayers appear in the offing. Alderman Thomas A. Boker, chairman of the Granite City council's Finance Committee, in a discussion of city money problems, said Tuesday night that the city needs more revenue.

"If the people of Granite City expect city services, then they are going to have to pay for it even if it means more taxes," He added: "There, I have said the dirty word—taxes. Somebody has to talk about it. If we are going to run a city, then we need the money with which to do it." Mayor Donald Partney interrupted at this point to note that the city now has no poll tax and levies only a small part of the allowable sewer maintenance tax. He said the city should find new sources of revenue.

Alton Man Loses Wallet

Mike Spitz, Alton, reported at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday that he lost his dark brown wallet containing important papers and identification, but no money, last May 26 in the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Hospital. He said repeated attempts to find it since have failed.

Half of Women 45 to 54 Are in the Labor Market

If you are a married woman over 45 and are thinking of taking a plunge into the job market, bear in mind that you won't be an odd duck in the employment pool. The last time the Department of Labor took a count, almost half of all married women aged 45 to 54 were working or actively looking; at the ages of 55 to 64, over a third were employed.

Every year, mature people reenter the labor force or join it for the first time, reports the Institute of Life Insurance. Many are wives who make the decision after their children are grown up, or a need for an extra income arises. Some women seek to continue a career interrupted by marriage and family, or, perhaps want to start one. Or they may want a job that will make them feel more committed and useful. To many, the satisfaction of a job coupled with their own earnings is a steady experience.

There are some factors, however, to be taken into account by a married mature woman entering the labor force. First, she may well want to determine that she has the full endorsement of her husband and family. Although she may have the final say about going to work, family disapproval could well cloud her working hours and cause friction at home.

Is Motivation Sound? Secondly, an equally important subject to consider, suggest family experts, is her basic motivation for working. Should her principal reason be money to spend for "extras," she may do well to consider all the extra expenses her position may incur.

Among her on-the-job expenses may be: transportation, lunches, extra clothes, household help, and maybe even frozen TV dinners for the family. While these debit items may or may not offset the on-the-job gains, they should be taken into account in advance.

Thirdly, she should determine that her physical condition and general state of health are satisfactory. Is she strong enough to withstand the activities and strains that go into a new work situation in addition to her home activity? Her future job may have built-in stresses that she may not have encountered at home, such as in manual operation of machines, extra walking or standing, or climbing stairs.

After any pre-job conflicts are resolved, here are some pointers from the Institute on looking for a job:

1. If you have typed before, or have been a draftsman, or have written advertising copy, or taken shorthand, polish these skills through practice, via adult refresher courses and reading. If you lack specialized skills you may want to take an elementary course in the adult division of a local university or school system or at a community center. Or look into schools offering training in subjects ranging from punch-card operations to hairdressing. Consult the classified telephone directory for these.

Use Care on Forms

2. When applying to companies or employment agencies, fill out application forms with care. Spelling, accuracy and legibility, as well as neatness, contribute to a total favorable impression.

3. Compose a resume, whether you have had past employment or not. If you have never held a job before, you can list your vital autobiographical data, including education, as well as any volunteer jobs you have held. You can get help in resume-writing through most employment agencies with whom you register. They will either give you suggestions on how to best present yourself, or, will supply you with a resume sample.

4. Be realistic about salary. You ask for too much, you may not get the job. If you ask for too little, you may be selling yourself short and will be sorry later. Check salary offers in the newspapers' employment columns and get advice from family and working friends.

5. If you don't hear from the employment agency after your initial interview — call them again. They may just have heard about a new position.

TIPS ON ELECTRIC KNIFE

Before connecting your electric knife to the electrical outlet, be sure you're ready for action. This means having the blades inserted and locked in place. It also means having the foot in front of you ready to carve. And it means using a cutting board to prevent damage to the counter top or serving tray—or to the knife blades themselves.

PROTECT FILM FROM HEAT

If you're traveling by car on your vacation, don't store your film on the shelf under the rear window or in the closed glove compartment. These places can get hot enough to spoil your film. Keep both exposed and unexposed film in a small covered box on the floor, away from rays of sun. An insulated picnic lunch box makes an excellent container for film. For desert travel, when the floor may become warm, keep the film in a gadget bag suspended from the handle of a door. Try to park your car in the shade when you have film in it. And leave a small air vent on each side of the car instead of tightly rolling up all the windows.

USE "SQUINT RULE"

FOR SUNSETS

Sunsets are a favorite subject of all photographers — amateur or professional. Follow this time-tested guideline — if you can look at the scene without squinting, you can photograph it in color and get good results. In other words, the sun itself should be covered or partially obscured by a cloud, hidden behind an object or the skyline or dimmed by aerial dust or haze. Expose for the light areas of the sky and use an exposure meter if your camera is the non-automatic type.

SNACKS IN YOUR DIET

Planned snacking is often an excellent idea. You may find that you are able to maintain a higher level of energy throughout the day by dividing your total intake into four or five small meals rather than the usual three. For instance, you might prefer to start the day with just a bowl of cereal and milk, saving your fruit or juice for a mid-morning snack.

NOTEBOOK HANDY

PHOTO AID

Include a small notebook in your photo gadget bag. Use the notebook to jot down facts about the places, people and events represented in your pictures. Keep track of your shots by labeling the rolls of film with letters and the exposures with numbers.

Former Post Office In Alton to Be Sold

The General Services Administration announced today that it plans to sell the former U. S. Post Office in Alton.

The property consists of 0.431 acres, improved with a one-story and basement brick building, containing 21,417 square feet of floor area with a combination air-conditioning and heating system.

Sealed bids will be accepted until 3 p.m. Aug. 6 and then publicly opened and read in the Business Services Center, General Services Administration, Room 1482, Everett McKinley Dirksen Building, 219 South Dearborn St., Chicago 60604. Those interested in bid forms G-ILL-487A may write or telephone 312-353-5383.

Power Rate Petition

A petition opposing an Illinois Power Co. electrical rate increase was filed Tuesday with the Illinois Commerce Commission in Springfield by Robert Mays, an attorney and East St. Louis street commissioner. Filing it for "retired persons over 62," he said a meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the East St. Louis city hall to make plans to fight the proposal.

DESTINATION CLUB MAY FORM KITCHEN BAND

The Destination Kops Club, a chapter of Take Off Pounds Sensibly, met in the home of Mrs. Billie Bagl, 3119 Harvard Place, Monday evening with the leader, Mrs. Vernie Von Nida, presiding. A discussion was held on a banner for the newly-organized club.

The meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance and club pledge and Mrs. Von Nida announced that, due to the weather a miniature golf game has been submitted for the club bazaar and two new parties have been added, she reported.

A report was given by the secretary, Mrs. Linda Miles, and the members discussed tentative plans to organize a kitchen band.

Mrs. Bagl, weight recorder, conducted a weigh-in and placed a tiara on Mrs. Miles as queen of the week. The titleholder was presented with two articles on malnutrition printed in the Press-Record, and "A Moment on the Lip" by Yvonne on the Hips, which the leader suggested as the club motto. A discussion was held concerning placing the motto on necktie medallions.

Also discussed were holiday weight gains. Responding to roll call were those mentioned and Mrs. Ruth Stover, co-leader. Those interested in joining the club are to contact a member. The club meets each Monday at 7 p.m. at the Bagl home.

Home Products Offer Modern Living Ideas

By CLYDE V. SMITH

Copley News Service

Each year, the nation's manufacturer's come up with an array of new products for the home.

The new offerings, covering a wide range of products, from appliances, bathroom and kitchen equipment, doors, flooring, interior and exterior finishing materials and a automated equipment to lighting, heating and air-conditioning, are always intriguing and usually fascinating.

This year, the new products are as exciting and dramatic as ever, perhaps even more so.

Home builders who returned from the convention-exposition of the National Association of Home Builders in Houston were highly impressed by that they saw.

Exhibits of new products covered nearly 12 acres in Houston's vast Astrodome.

Many of the products were brand-new and on display for the first time.

Many more exhibits were not really new.

They were familiar appliances or equipment that have been around for a long time. But these have been updated or redesigned for this year's market.

Even among the old lines, there was more refinement, more elegance, more ingenuity in designing convenience into certain equipment.

House & Home, one of the nation's leading trade publications in the housing industry, noted that "whether the products at the NAHB display were brand-new or simply updated, all are light-years ahead of just ten short years ago."

One developer who specializes in subdivisions of luxury homes described this year's new product lines as "fantastic, just simply fantastic."

He said it showed in designs in colors, in new ideas that stem from the cooperative efforts of professional interior designers working with architects and engineers.

The last decade has brought Space Age materials and technology to home building.

Nose-cone material is used for smooth surfaced cooktops. Transistorized timers take up no space at all.

Plastics are everywhere — in complete bathrooms, on doors and windows, in siding and gutters, in textured floorings and woodgrained wall panels.

Manufacturers are constantly improving their products. It showed at Houston.

From the public standpoint, most of the obvious changes were in kitchens and bathrooms — new elegance, new push-button convenience.

However, most of the new product offerings, whether updated or brand-new, will not be available to the public for several months, and some are way out futuristic.

It may be several years before these products will be on the market.

But, displays demonstrating the possibilities for the future were among the most fascinating.

For instance, Westinghouse Electric Corp. exhibited unique new products and systems developed in its research laboratories and design centers, admitting that these products are not available right now, "but we think they can be within five years."

Builders were intrigued with a range that doesn't cook with gas or even with resistance heaters, "the first new way to cook on a range in 60 years."

Then there was a food preparation center packed with exciting futuristic devices ranging from a new way to turn on lights — just touch the wall — to a dishwasher that opens from front and back to speed aftermeal cleanup.

The new way of cooking, without burners or conventional heating elements, takes the heat completely out of the range and puts it directly into the pot or pan.

This cool-top range, according to F. R. Amthor, manager of Westinghouse's consumer product development center, can bring a pan of water to 212-degree boiling point through a piece of paper without even singing the paper.

Instead of the range heating up, it is the food or liquid that gets hot.

State Fair Aug. 13-22 Will Be a Kaleidoscope of Entertainment

Doc Severinsen of "Tonight Show" fame brings a dynamic live entertainment spectacular featuring the Now Generation Brass and the dancing Brothers and Sisters to the Illinois State Fair, Friday, August 20. Tickets for the Severinsen show are $5, $4, and $3.

A kaleidoscope journey touching every major style of entertainment will be offered fairgoers at the 1971 Illinois State Fair.

The entertainment ranges from the heavy youth vibes of The Guess Who to the softness of the Pat Boone Family Show; the metropolitan Doc Severinsen or the country down-home Grand Ole Opry.

The poignant verses of Merle Haggard or the moving evangelism of a Gospel Spectacular; the king of comedy Red Skelton or smooth champagne music from Lawrence Welk. All have their night at the Illinois State Fair.

The Guess Who bring the drive of heavy rock to the grandstand for Young American Day, Aug. 13.

The Canadian rock group has six golden records, headed by "American Woman." The warm-up group is Podipto, and tickets are $4, $3 and $2.

Red Skelton and Saturday, Aug. 14, is a combination worth remembering, with the King of Comedy at the grandstand.

The ability of Skelton to bring forth the humor of the human situation, and yet in the same breath produce a serious and provoking thought, is as renowned as the man himself. Tickets are $6, $5, $4 and $3.

Only one man wears the coveted titles from the Academy of Country and Western Music of "Entertainer of the Year," "Best Male Vocalist" and "Best Band." That man is Merle Haggard and he will be at the grandstand Monday, Aug. 16. With him will be Bonnie Owens and The Strangers. Tickets are $6, $5, $4 and $3.

Pat Boone's new show, termed "Just For You"—featuring his wife and four teenage daughters—is slated for the grandstand Tuesday, Aug. 17. Also with the show will be the Grammy winning Oak Ridge Boys. Tickets are priced at $5, $4 and $3.

Gospel music is experiencing a grassroots resurgence throughout the nation, and with this resurgence comes a new concept in entertainment.

Four of the biggest gospel groups will be on one stage in the same evening, headlining Hovie Lister and the Sensational Statesmen, The Blackwood Brothers, The Prophets and the Speer Family on Wednesday, Aug. 18, with tickets $4, $3, and $2.

Grand Ole Opry originated in the Midwest and remains a popular style of entertainment. Perhaps the ultimate show in country and western music, this Grand Ole Opry is paced by Jerry Lee Lewis, Porter Wagoner, Dolly Parton, Ernest Tubbs and many more. Tickets for the Thursday, Aug. 19 performance are $5, $4 and $3.

A live entertainment experience describes the captivating blend of Doc Severinsen and the Now Generation Brass, with the dancing of the Brothers and Sisters. Tickets are $5, $4 and $3 for the Friday, Aug. 20 show.

The Champagne Music of Lawrence Welk will be heard for two big nights, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 21 and 22. Over 40 of the entertainers from his TV show will weave their speciality of bubbly, bouncy music. Tickets are $6, $5, $4 and $3.

The dates of the 1971 Illinois State Fair, an "Exposition of Progress," are Aug. 13-22.

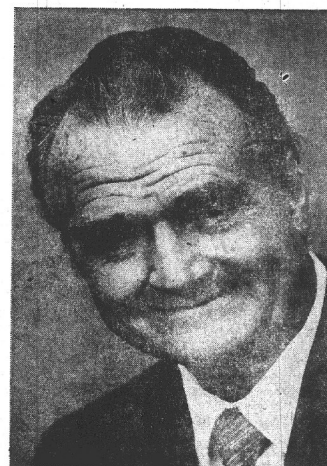

Pat Boone has a new look, complimented beautifully by his wife and four teenage daughters, in a family show "Just for You" at the Illinois State Fair, August 17. With Boone will be the GRAMMY winning Oak Ridge Boys. Tickets are $5, $4, and $3.

Merle Haggard started at the bottom and stands now at the pinnacle of country and western music. Awarded honors from the Academy of Country and Western Music as the "Entertainer of the Year," and "Best Male Vocalist," Haggard will be at the Illinois State Fair, August 16. Tickets are priced at $6, $5, $4, and $3.

Lawrence Welk and over 40 musicians from his TV show will weave their Champagne Music spill for two nights at the Illinois State Fair, August 21 and 22. Tickets to the easy listening special are $6, $5, $4, and $3.

Red Skelton brings his special brand of humor and hilarity to the Illinois State Fair on Saturday, August 14. A modest man who prefers to be called simply "one of America's clowns," Red's expertise as an entertainer rates the title "King of Comedy." Tickets are $6, $5, $4, and $3.

Jerry Lee Lewis sets the pace of country down-home music in one of the finest Grand Ole Opry shows ever produced at the Illinois State Fair, Thursday, August 19. On the same program will be Porter Wagoner, Dolly Parton, Ernest Tubbs, Pee Wee King, and many more. Tickets are $5, $4, and $3.

Bronc Busting Cowboys will fill the Coliseum of the Illinois State Fair with the old west spirit for five nights, August 18-22. The I.R.A. sanctioned rodeo is the first professional championship rodeo ever in the Coliseum. Tickets are $4 and $3.

The Guess Who, one of the nation's top rock groups with six million selling records, will kick off the 1971 Illinois State Fair with a concert at the grandstand August 13. The Guess Who concert culminates activities of Young American Day at the Fair. Tickets are $4, $3, and $2.

Three Injured as Car Hits Tractor-Trailer

Three persons were injured when the auto of Richard Tartt, 17, of 1737 Olive St., collided with the rear of a semi-trailer truck on Madison Avenue at Second Street in Madison at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Business Role in Social Progress Called Enlightened Self-Interest

An organization of national business leaders has just declared that business can no longer fulfill its responsibilities to society through economic performance alone but must play a broader role "as an important instrument for social progress."

In a 74-page policy statement, "Social Responsibilities of Business, Corporations," the Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development (CED) explained that the corporation's "enlightened self-interest" as well as the long-run advantage to its stockholders necessitate greater involvement in efforts to help solve the nation's social problems.

The Committee called on members of the business community to formulate their goals and evaluate their performance on the basis of social as well as financial criteria.

It also recommended a stronger government-business partnership, with the government contracting and providing incentives for business participation in many traditional areas of governmental activity.

In a forward to the political statement, Emilio G. Collado, executive vice-president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) and co-chairman of the CED Research and Policy Committee, explained that the CED report "must be seen in the perspective of the growing consensus in our society that higher priority than ever must be given to the nation's social problems."

"The policy statement was made public by Raymond H. Mulford, chairman of Owens-Illinois, Inc., and chairman of the CED subcommittee which prepared the report."

The policy statement calls upon the corporate community "to open up a vista of business pioneering in new fields of activities, new social responsibilities and new cultural achievements that will be a new frontier for business over the next several decades."

"It emphasizes that 'responsible management must have the vision and exert the leadership to develop a broader social role for the corporation if business is to continue to receive public confidence and support.'"

Although the statement applies to business enterprises generally, it concentrates on the responsibilities of the large publicly-owned corporations, the CED report asserts.

"There is now a pervasive feeling in the country that the social order has become more gotten out of balance, and that greater affluence and deteriorating environment and community life does not make much sense."

While public expectations have been changing, so has the corporate institution, the report maintains.

The Committee points out that "the constituencies of large corporations have become so sizeable and diversified—encompassing millions of employees, stockholders, customers and community neighbors—all sections of the country and in all classes of society—that they actually constitute a microcosm of the entire society."

Thus, corporate social involvement is fully consistent with a company's responsibilities to its own immediate constituents, the Committee says. The policy statement emphasizes that it is in the corporation's enlightened self-interest to involve itself in the solution of social problems. "There is broad recognition today that corporate self-interest is inseparably involved in the well-being of the society of which business is an integral part, and from which it draws the basic requirements needed for it to function at all—capital, labor, customers."

"And it has become clear that the essential resources and good will of society are not naturally forthcoming to corporations whenever needed, but must be worked for and developed."

Furthermore, the Committee stresses, "experience with governmental and social constraints indicates that the corporation's self-interest is best served by a sensitivity to social concerns and willingness, within competitive limits, to take needed action ahead of a confrontation."

"By acting on its own initiative, management preserves the flexibility needed to conduct the company's affairs in a constructive, efficient, adaptive manner."

"And it avoids the risk that governmental or social sanctions, produced out of a crisis atmosphere, may be more restrictive than necessary."

Indeed, the corporation's self-interest can justify involvement in helping to solve virtually any social problem, the Committee says, because "people who have a good education, education and opportunity make better employees, customers and neighbors for business than those who are poor, ignorant and oppressed."

"It is obviously in the interest of business to enlarge its markets and to improve its work force by helping disadvantaged people to develop and employ their own potential."

Likewise, it is in the interest of business to help reduce the mounting costs of welfare, crime, disease and waste of human potential—a good part of which business pays for."

The expanded social role of the corporation should also serve the long-run interest of the stockholder, the Committee declares.

Because of the diversified nature of business ownership, stockholders necessarily ride with corporations as a group and with investment policies which provide benefits to the corporate sector as a whole," the policy statement explains.

The Committee cautions, however, that "business establishments obviously cannot solve all the problems of society."

"Corporations necessarily are limited by various internal constraints on what and how much they can do to improve society."

The report points out, for example, that "a very large corporate with extensive resources and skills is able to do a good deal more than a small company, which might have to stick exclusively to its traditional business to stay alive in a highly competitive market."

Furthermore, the policy statement emphasizes, "no company of any size can willingly incur costs which would jeopardize its competitive position and threaten its survival."

"Any substantial expenditures must be justified in terms of the benefits, tangible and intangible, that are expected to be produced."

Since many major corporations have especially long planning horizons, they may be able to incur costs and forego profits in the short run for substantial improvements that are expected to enhance profits or improve the corporate environment in the long run.

"But the corporation that sacrifices too much in the way of earnings in the short run will soon find itself with no long run to worry about."

The Committee therefore focuses attention on ways and means by which the profit motive can be applied to social objectives.

It believes there are many areas in which business can profit by serving society's new requirements—such as housing, education, man-power training, health, transportation, large-scale urban redevelopment and new cities—where public pressures for improvements are already strong enough to create profitable opportunities.

"To respond to such opportunities, business must recognize that the pursuit of profit is substantially less than the 9% maximum allowed by law."

2. Business firms can increase their cooperative action in dealing with area-wide problems. The statement proposes greater use of consortium arrangements in which corporations within the limitations of anti-trust laws participate in the solution of social problems while minimizing competitive cost disadvantages.

3. Top management can encourage employees, especially young managers, to apply their skills to relevant social as well as business matters. This should be "widely and explicitly recognized as a normal, rather than an exceptional, part of managerial responsibilities, and as an essential ingredient for managers aiming to equip themselves for broader executive responsibility," the Committee recommends.

4. The corporation adapts to the changing requirements of society and moves into uncharted terrain, the statement emphasizes, there is a clear need to develop better methods for determining corporate goals and evaluating performance.

The corporation should formulate its goals on the basis of social as well as financial criteria, the Committee declares.

As examples, it cites goals with respect to pollution levels and minority employment.

The next step is to utilize the most advanced methodologies to measure corporate performance in meeting its various goals.

The corporation should then inform its constituents periodically about its progress toward these established goals. "These clear objective evaluations of actual corporate performance will be more credible to the public," the Committee says, "than general rhetoric about how well the company is living up to its social responsibilities; they will also be much more meaningful than expending resources on public relations alone."

The policy statement calls for a stronger business-government partnership. "The converging of two trends—the business thrust into social fields, and government's increasing use of market incentives to induce even greater business—government partnership," the converging of two trends—the business thrust into social fields, and government's increasing use of market incentives to induce even greater business involvement—is gradually bringing these two powerful institutions into a constructive partnership for accelerating social progress."

"Fundamentally, it offers a new means for developing the innate capabilities of a political democracy and a private enterprise economy into a new politico-economic system capable of managing social and technological change in the interest of a better social order."

Government will need to recognize the comparative advantages of public and private-sector capabilities for carrying out social programs as efficiently as possible, the report points out.

Shirtwaist Fashions Gain New Versatility

By BETH MOHR
Copley News Service

Neatest follower of fashion's return to the "civilized look" is the shirtwaist dress.

Smarter than the old standard that was turned out in cookie-cutter dullness through decades of fashion trends until the shift '60s, the new shirtwaist is a versatile baby.

Designers generally remain faithful to the front closing, accented waistline and easy skirt. From there, variety takes over.

A two-piece look brings the most classic version up to date. Bodices and skirts are in contrasting solid colors or solids with prints or plaids. Belts frequently contribute interest. Some are in new contours and greater widths. Others add a third color to bodice-skirt contrast or go further in embroidered or woven patterns.

In other variations, the button front and belted waistline are all that allow the shirtwaist name. Shirt sleeves and collars are exaggerated, narrowed down or replaced with entirely different looks. Skirts are long, short, flared, pleated or stay with the classic dirndl.

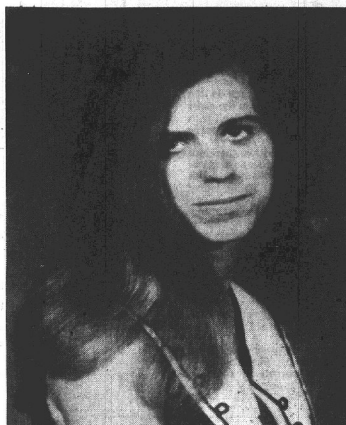

Materials help play the variety game. Matte jersey gives the silhouette sophisticated cling, especially in long evening versions. Synthetic knits are crisp and trim. Gingham and calicos are in the mood for country-girl demureness. Silks give the shirtwaist feminine softness for late day and evening.

Dear Nana--Forgetful Mother Poses Problem

By JACKIE STEFANICH
Copley News Service

Dear Nana:
My mother is 76 and quite well but she forgets easily like most of the elderly.

She's in a rest home which is very nice and I'm sure she's as happy as any of them are when they aren't living in their own home.

My only problem is she forgets so easily whenever I'm away and she can't get me by phone. I write notes for her and put them in her purse and drawers. But she still can't seem to remember where we're at or when we'll be back.

Consequently, she makes a pest of herself telephoning and bothering the rest of the family while we're gone.

Can you help with my problem? My husband travels a great deal for his company and I try to go with him whenever possible.

Now that our children are married and out on their own, my husband doesn't think I should let anything else hold me at home.

Dear Away:
As your mother is in a rest home, why don't you confide your itinerary to the owners?

I'm sure they'd appreciate this courtesy as it's difficult to handle this type of a situation if you don't know dates and times.

Then maybe your mother won't bother the rest of the family as the owners of the rest home can answer her questions whenever she forgets.

Dear Nana:
Although I'm a senior citizen, I'm still very well physically and able to work every day.

In fact, my husband and I own a preschool nursery and have 15 little ones to care for. My husband and I are always looking for ways to entertain these children and educational "hobbies" to help them with.

I'd like to thank you for the Christmas card basket you sent. The children had a great deal of fun making them for gifts for their parents even though it required a lot of help from my husband and me.

Last month, I saw a calendar clock that would be wonderful to tell time, days and months of the year. But the one I saw was far too expensive for our budget.

Do you know if there are instructions for this type of a hobby in this new stichery that people are making?

I haven't been able to find a calendar clock in any of the instruction books I've seen. I wouldn't mind making one as we have an old-fashioned chime clock that could be mounted with a calendar.

Kern-Thompson Nuptials At Charleston, Mo.

Announcements have been received from Charleston, Mo., of the recent wedding of Miss Janet Kay Thompson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thompson of that city, and Ernest Lee Kern, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kern of Granite City.

The ceremony took place June 20 at First Baptist Church in Charleston with the Rev. H. W. Chaney officiating. Candlelight, greenery and pink and white summer flowers furnished the setting for the afternoon service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ruffled gown of French design, scalloped Chantilly lace featuring a high neck with a lace ruffle. The long, full sleeves were puffed at the elbow and tied with ruffles. The skirt, with its lace front panel, had tiers of lace ruffles around the back and satin ribbon at the waist.

The detachable Watteau train and chapel veil were also lace-trimmed. White orchids were combined with daisies, pom-poms and lilies of the valley in the bride's colonial bouquet.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Eleanor Sue Crowell of Sikes-ton, Mo., a sister, matron of honor, and Miss Jane Pickard of Charleston, bridesmaid, wore ankle-length pink and white dotted swiss gowns of flower design with high necks and flat ribbon bows at the waistlines. Daisies were in their hair and they carried wicker baskets of pink pom-poms and daisies.

Ronald Joyce was best man, serving with Tony Kern, groomsmen, and Dwayne Briggs, Kevin Richs, Bruce Nall, Carl Batha and Fred Warren, ushers.

Rhonda Joyce of Granite City, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

The wedding reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The newlyweds will live in the student housing quarters in Kalamazoo, Mich., where the bridegroom, a Southeast Missouri State College graduate, will receive his master's degree in earth science in August. He will begin work on his doctorate in the autumn.

The former Miss Thompson received a degree in music education from Southeast Missouri State College last May. She was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Both are attending the camp on music scholarship furnished by the Nameoki Woman's Club, according to Louis E. Meek, GCBS band director.

During the two week program, both girls will receive instruction geared toward the specific instrument they play. Miss Hogan performs on the

$21,370 Grant Given To Prof for Research

The National Institute of General Medical Science has awarded $21,370 to Southern Illinois University-Southwestern to support research under the direction of Michael Levy of the biological sciences faculty.

The research entitled "Biochemical and Ultrastructural Studies on Organelles" deals with a part of the living cell called micro-body, which is found in the liver, kidneys and some plant cells, according to Levy. He says that very little is known about the micro-body since it was first discovered about 12 years ago, but it is possible it may be involved in the breakdown of sugar.

Famous Teens-Music Career Of Victor Herbert Recalled

Editor's Note: Victor Herbert, until he was 17, Victor lived, ate and slept music. He took a leading role in the founding of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) in 1914. He composed "Mile. Modiste," "Naughty Marietta," and other operettas. This is one of a series on what famous people were like in their teens.

By BETT ANDERSON
Copy News Service
Victor Herbert knew in his early teens that music was his thing. But he wasn't sure that he could make a living out of it. So he began to concentrate on Greek and Latin at school, thinking he might become a doctor.

His mother and stepfather thought it was a good idea. Then poverty reared its ugly head. There wasn't enough money for a medical education. The talented teenager turned to music. Victor could play a mean flute. But it bugged him that he was forever cleaning and polishing the tiny instrument. So he abandoned the flute in favor of the cello. He found a fantastic teacher, Bernhard Cossman of Baden-Baden.

From the time he was 15, until he was 17, Victor lived, ate and slept music. He went to every concert that he could afford. He followed musicians around, learning what he could from them. At 18, Victor began earning his living. He would go from city to city with traveling orchestras. It was fun but also very hard work.

He was so good that he was often featured as a soloist. Sometimes the orchestra would become stranded. The musicians had to pawn whatever they could. Often, Victor would find himself in a strange city with nothing to his name but his cello and his white tie and tails.

In 1878, when Victor was 19, he began to feel his oats. He knew he was good. He had filled numerous professional engagements. He was lucky one. For he had, in his employer for over a year a teenager who was destined to become a legend in the musical world. Victor Herbert later composed such popular operettas as "Babes in Toyland," "Mile. Modiste," "Naughty Marietta" and many others.

Actually, the baron was the tired of one-night stands. He wanted to be taken seriously in the music world.

Disadvantaged Child Workshop Set at SIU

To motivate the disadvantaged child to achieve, there are certain personality "keys" upon which the teacher can play, a Southern Illinois University child development specialist believes.

Tim M. Flynn, assistant professor in the child and family department, School of Home Economics at Carbondale, says a child's potential to achieve can be predicted by these traits: his motor inhibition (control), his self-control, his degree of risk-taking, his self-concept and his ability to delay gratification of desire.

Flynn this summer will conduct a two-week workshop July 19-30 on "Developing Achievement Motivation in the Disadvantaged Child."

Last year he headed an investigative team in Florida measuring these and other traits in migrant workers' preschool children.

Good News--'No Return' Kind Acts by Students

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

Now that the nation's colleges and universities have reached vacation time, it might be well to point out that some students still are thinking about other people instead of a protest march or campus demonstration.

For example, the townspeople of Millville, Utah, not far from Utah State University at Logan, weren't enthusiastic about the average college student.

Even Mayor John Clark had his misgivings when 50 Utah State students came over to help the little community clean up and fix up.

"It's really refreshing to have some people interested in helping and not asking anything in return," the mayor said afterward. "It seems these kids do care about other people."

They were amazed that students would come and help all day and then leave and ask nothing in return," recalls Ray Colard, one of the student volunteers.

The students picked up trash, dug ditches and weeded gardens, all in a cold rain. They joined the 450 residents of Millville to paint and repair buildings, installed a drinking fountain at a baseball field and erected benches.

Many of the Millville residents are elderly and couldn't do the repair and clean-up work themselves.

Here's an idea that might catch on with American youngsters:

In Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, Bryan and Judy Smith decided there weren't enough bicycles around for all the kids and adults who wanted to pedal instead of walk.

So they organized a project and asked people to donate bicycles they weren't using. The response was gratifying.

Now the community has a program to provide bicycles for the young and old, and they don't have to return the bikes when they've finished their ride.

They are asked merely to leave them in a public place where they dismount, so someone else can pedal off.

The bicycles are painted in bright colors and bear a sign indicating they belong to the entire community for use by anyone. The only ground rule is not to ride too long or take the bike home.

"We're not anti-automobile," explains Judy. "It's just that we want to provide the fun that people can have on a bike and the exercise they get from riding."

In the scientific spin-off department, the federal space agency's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., has developed an alarm system aimed at keeping small school disorders from becoming big ones.

JPL also has come up with a computer that keeps school attendance records which may make classroom roll calls as obsolete as inkwells in American schools.

The mobile alarm has been tested at the John F. Kennedy High School in Sacramento, Calif. Officials say it has been a significant factor in reducing off major campus trouble.

Each teacher can alert the principal's office by activating an ultrasonic device the size of a fountain pen. It uses no batteries and can be operated from any place in a building. The system can record any number of calls for assistance simultaneously.

It also has provided swift response to accidents, helping a student welder whose glove caught fire, another whose hand was cut by a band saw and a third who had an epileptic attack.

A small computer system to equipment used to monitor radio signals from outer space has been adapted by JPL engineers to relieve teachers of the attendance-reporting tedium.

Instead of writing time-consuming roll-call reports, the teacher simply pushes buttons on a small keyboard to electronically record absentees in the school accounting office. The computer stores the information each period and totals up an end-of-the-day compilation of school attendance.

Frank Schimandle, Kennedy principal, says some teachers and office employees will be relieved of 10 to 14 reports daily. And the system is expected to save each instructor up to 40 minutes a day in paper work.

"It's really refreshing to have some people interested in helping and not asking anything in return," the mayor said afterward. "It seems these kids do care about other people."

They were amazed that students would come and help all day and then leave and ask nothing in return," recalls Ray Colard, one of the student volunteers.

The students picked up trash, dug ditches and weeded gardens, all in a cold rain. They joined the 450 residents of Millville to paint and repair buildings, installed a drinking fountain at a baseball field and erected benches.

Many of the Millville residents are elderly and couldn't do the repair and clean-up work themselves.

Here's an idea that might catch on with American youngsters:

In Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, Bryan and Judy Smith decided there weren't enough bicycles around for all the kids and adults who wanted to pedal instead of walk.

So they organized a project and asked people to donate bicycles they weren't using. The response was gratifying.

Now the community has a program to provide bicycles for the young and old, and they don't have to return the bikes when they've finished their ride.

They are asked merely to leave them in a public place where they dismount, so someone else can pedal off.

The bicycles are painted in bright colors and bear a sign indicating they belong to the entire community for use by anyone. The only ground rule is not to ride too long or take the bike home.

"We're not anti-automobile," explains Judy. "It's just that we want to provide the fun that people can have on a bike and the exercise they get from riding."

In the scientific spin-off department, the federal space agency's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., has developed an alarm system aimed at keeping small school disorders from becoming big ones.

Hot Pants Issue Worries Daughter

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Yesterday I asked my mother for money to purchase hot pants. Instead of money, I received an hour-long lecture against them. What I need is cash, not conversation.

How can I convince my mother that hot pants are not indecent, immoral or unseemly?
Margie

Dear Margie:
Remind mom that in her day they were called short shorts. Betty Grable wore them and your mother probably did too. I think the name hot pants gets to some parents.

Why not do some baby-sitting and earn the money for the hot pants? Then ask mom to go shopping with you. You may have more success with this approach.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Our daughter is 18 and has just finished her first year of college. She has now announced that she does not intend to return, even though she had good grades. Instead she is going to join some sort of commune in New Mexico.

I can't understand what has come over her or how she can think in this manner. So far as I know, she has never been involved with drugs. However, I am beginning to think I don't know her at all. She says a friend of hers joined this group and has never been happier.

My husband told our daughter that if she left home he would not send her one cent to live on. His theory is that when she runs out of money she will return home.

I don't think I could swallow a bite worrying about her being old and hungry.

How can we make her stay home?
Mrs. F. S.

Dear Mrs. F. S.:
You can't make an 18-year-old stay home. And your husband may be right. Many teenagers run out of money and then run home. Perhaps a third party could influence your daughter's thinking. It is worth a try.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My mother and father have joined a class in self-hypnosis. Now they sit around the house trying to hypnotize themselves. My sister and brother are as embarrassed by this as I am.

Mom and dad insist this has all been very relaxing and that they have no intention of quitting the class. How can two otherwise perfect parents do something so foolish? What can we do to bring them to their senses?

Three Teen-Agers
Dear Three:
Parents of three teen-agers need all the relaxation they can get. Stop bugging mom and dad.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I'm 19 and my fiancé is 23. We've been engaged a year and plan to be married soon.

My problem is my fiancé drinks entirely too much. Every night he gets drunk. I've talked and talked, but all I hear from him is, "I'm sorry. It won't happen again." But it always does. He has told me he will quit after our marriage but I don't believe him. The last thing I want is an alcoholic husband. What can I do?

Upset
Dear Upset:
If you don't want an alcoholic husband, don't choose an alcoholic fiancé. If this young man can't, or won't stop the excessive drinking before marriage, why would he stop after marriage? Tell him to leave the booze alone and then you may consider marriage. Solve this problem before marriage—NOT after.

Confidential to Jenny:
No friend is perfect. Pope said: "To err is human, to forgive, divine." Try it.

Members of the Checkerboard Squares feel much wiser in the area of world affairs since the recent visit of Capt. De Mac Van of the South Vietnamese Army.

Capt. De was a house guest of the Bob Boyd family, 39 Villa Drive, and a guest of honor at a Checkerboard Squares dance class session.

Capt. De had been in the United States for the past six months attending schools, including four weeks at the U. S. Language Institute at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., and in logistics at Fort Lee, Va.

Boyd met the South Vietnamese officer at Fort Lee where he also was attending a school. It was during evening discussions of their respective homes and hobbies that Capt. De learned of the Checkerboard Squares and expressed an interest in American folk dancing.

He participated in some of the simple squares and rounds. Midway through the class he gathered the children about him to conduct a question-and-answer session on the cultures of the two countries.

The questions covered climate, holidays, schools, vacations, religion, food, recreation and dating. His answers revealed pride in his country and dedication to duty.

The session ended with the Checkerboards singing several American songs for Capt. De, and he sang a love song for them in Vietnamese.

The evening was climaxed with an array of American snacks and sweets surrounding

Bi-State Will Ask Grant To Cut Fares for Elderly

The Bi-State Development has announced plans to file for a demonstration grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration of the Department of Transportation for the purpose of creating a reduced cash fare for senior citizens.

Robert S. Knapp, chairman of the Bi-State Board of Commissioners, explained that the Bi-State Transit System currently offers an off-hour discount pass which sells for $3 and is good for unlimited riding Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and at any time on Sundays and specified holidays.

He reported that a study made last year by Bi-State's consulting engineers, the W. C. Gilman Co., indicated the average discount pass user utilizes the pass for about 12 rides a week, making the cost per ride only 25 cents.

Other Cities Have Subsidy Knapp added, "This agency is well aware that special senior citizen fares are now in effect in 26 other cities. We also are equally aware that in most instances either the city or the state pays a subsidy to the transit operators."

"Nevertheless, we recognize that many of our buses in off-peak hours operate with less than capacity loads. We also realize that many individuals on low, fixed incomes do not wish to invest $3 in a pass which may not be used fully.

"Therefore, we believe there may be a source of untapped ridership. Our problem will be to determine, if we can, whether a simple reduced cash fare can be substituted for our weekly discount pass without substantial loss of revenue.

"Our only problem is that, contrary to popular misconception, Bi-State does not receive an operating subsidy of any kind. Our only income is from the fares of our patrons so that any loss caused by special fares to one group must be recovered by increased fare to other riders.

The legislators of the St. Louis metropolitan area were instrumental in passing a bill permitting the city of Kansas City to subsidize their bus service. Had that bill not been amended to exclude our Bi-State Transit System, which is the largest system in the state, St. Louis would have had the means to institute reduced fares and improved service throughout the system, not only for senior citizens but for all residents and users of public transportation in the area served."

Dean Williamson On Personnel Group
Dean of Students Ramon N. Williamson of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern has been named a member of an American College Personnel Assn. commission (ACPA).

The appointment is for a three-year term. According to Dean Williamson, the commission will deal with student personnel work for adults in higher education. More than 8,000 persons belong to the association and the commission is comprised of 250 members.

The group will plan programs for the conventions and regional workshops, initiate research projects in student personnel work and professional issues.

May Savings Bond Sales $522,191 in County
Madison county residents purchased a total of $522,191 in Series E and H United States savings bonds in May, according to Henry D. Karandjeff, Granite City, county chairman of the savings bonds committee.

Illinois' sales were $32,342,001 according to Clarence S. Sychowski, market director of the Treasury savings bonds division. This is 21.6 percent above last May's total.

Legislative Record Viewed as Providing Gov. Ogilvie Firm Base to Launch Re-Election Drive

CAPITOL COMMENTS
By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield — It was a good legislative session for Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

The lawmakers gave him most of what he sought and there were no major rebuffs. There were, as usual, some compromises — but none which seriously affect administration policies or programs.

The governor was able to hold to his pledge of no further tax increases. There was nothing approaching the bitterness of the income tax issue of 1969.

In about every tug-of-war with the Democratic legislators, Ogilvie came out ahead. Even in such hard-fought matters as state aid to schools and allotments for higher education, the final figures were closer to what the governor recommended than what the opposition sought.

The highlight of the session, of course, was enactment of the Ogilvie $900 million transportation program. Here there must be an assist credited to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, but in essence it was an Ogilvie triumph.

From a political standpoint it means Ogilvie can now campaign for re-election in 1972 as a governor who recognized the highway problem and made good his 1968 pledge to do something about it.

Also contributing to the increased stature is the fact that the legislature has left the state's financial situation in a better condition than it was at the convening of the session in January.

Statehouse fears that the 1971 regular session would end in deadlock and precipitate the state government into an unprecedented financial crisis did not materialize.

However, this danger is likely to emerge again and fairly soon. The legislature did have to push expenditures past the $1 billion-year mark and this drain will continue.

Although any crisis is over for the calendar year of 1971, next year's budgetary session of the legislature will probably have to once again deal with the issue.

Ogilvie also scored 'impressively in the concluded session on such matters as the anti-pollution fight, highway safety and insurance progress.

What is, perhaps, most important is that the governor did so well with so little real power in the legislature. Democrats held the balance of power in the Senate and, by session's end, the GOP margin in the House had been whittled away by illness.

Democrats, to their credit, did not use their legislative dominance to sabotage the Ogilvie proposals, which received an unusual degree of approval not only from lawmakers but most of the Illinois press as well.

Ogilvie — on the basis of the record of the 1971 session — has added to his stature as a good governor who gets things done. Whether he has regained any substantial popularity with the voters is problematical.

But any Democrat who runs against Ogilvie is going to have a hard time attacking him on his record. It is a good one, and even a Democratic-inclined legislature in effect has endorsed it.

Percy for War Withdrawal Date, Linking Federal Housing and Education Assistance

Comments by U. S. Senator Charles H. Percy, Illinois Republican, during a news interview this summer:

Q. A subject sure to receive a great deal of national attention is the series of articles in The New York Times concerning various documents that the newspaper says have been secured as a study of the Vietnam war by the Pentagon—that is, the origin of the war, how we got into it, key decisions on bombing, disposition of the U. S. forces, commitment of U. S. forces.

The first articles in that series seem to imply that a great many of the facts and the intentions of the U. S. government in 1964 and 1965 were kept from the American people, and Senator McGovern has charged that there was deception involved here.

I wonder what you think about the disclosures in these documents and what they may mean for our future policy?

PERCY: I think that there is no question that a great deal was kept from the American people.

I can recall myself saying years ago—from the bits and pieces of information I had—that we were carrying on a war and waging a war. Everyone in the world knew it except the American people.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD Page 32 Thurs., July 8, 1971

They couldn't hide this fact and claim security because the Communists knew we were engaged in a war, and yet the American people were not told that.

It's quite apparent that the executive branch of government did not entrust to the elected representatives of the people, in Congress, information as to what was actually being carried on when Congress presumably had the sole and exclusive ability to declare war.

Q. Well, Senator, do you think it will have any effect on future American policy?

In other words, will people tend to mistrust anything the present administration says, although these articles deal with events that ended in 1968 before President Nixon took office?

PERCY: I think there is always skepticism of government, but there seems to be a greater concern today.

Recent surveys indicated that they did not really believe government, and I think that goes for all levels of government. And it goes for all parties, Democrats and Republicans.

We have a credibility gap, and I think it is incumbent upon those of us in public office to be as candid as we possibly can under the circumstances.

Q. The first reaction from the Pentagon has been to suggest that an investigation should be made into how these documents were obtained by The New York Times. Do you think that's a matter that the Defense Department should pursue?

PERCY: Well, it's a certainty that it was not their intention to release the documents and it was policy of say, this administration not to do it, and the previous administration—if someone inside the administration breaks that policy, then I think the administration has the right to find out who it is.

I'm not sure that there will be a great deal of sympathy from the members of Congress, however. It is a separate branch of government, many of whose members strongly feel that Congress should be given more information than we actually are—and that goes back many years through the Kennedy and Johnson years.

Q. Well, it brings up the paradox that an administration which wants to keep something from the public only has to label it secret or top secret.

Then there is no way for members of Congress, much less the public, to find out unless there is some kind of daring leak or public disclosure of this kind.

PERCY: Let me be very specific about the kind of problem that a public official faces in this regard. I was in Vietnam and was briefed by the CIA there on the war in Laos.

I talked to Souvanna Phouma, the chief of state. I felt that what he said to me—I felt perfectly free to be able to quote, because at no time did he say I'm saying this to you in confidence, nor try to put a cloud in our conversation.

But, when I accepted a briefing labeled top secret by the CIA, our own agency, the fact that I accepted that briefing—I know there was a war going on, I was told that there was a war going on, and yet I felt that I could not disclose that.

And I've discussed this problem with the top level now of the CIA. And it's my feeling now that I should exercise my own judgment as to what I feel is in the best national interest.

I think in the future that I will try to use that judgment with more discretion than I had in the past, when I just felt that I could say absolutely nothing about a matter that I felt was a vital concern to my own constituency and to the country.

Having accepted the classified briefing, I felt that I could disclose nothing of the content of that briefing.

Q. Senator, on the general subject of the war, you've said that withdrawal should be expedited.

As you know, there recently have been proposals by Clark Clifford to suggest that we set a date for withdrawal. Then, if the North Vietnamese don't release our prisoners—which is a big question—we would then withdraw or delay it. What do you think of this proposal?

PERCY: What I can't answer is whether or not the assurances that Clark Clifford has—says he has—from the North Vietnamese or from other sources that have been in contact with the North Vietnamese are valid or not.

He is a man of integrity. I cannot believe he would say that unless he had a reasonable assurance on that point.

I do believe that I have said some time ago that the President should set a date, that he should use that date in a public way or a private way to try to end this war, to stop the attacks being made upon our forces as they withdraw, and secure the release of prisoners.

I feel just as deeply today, in fact more so than I did when I made that statement months ago.

The President, therefore, talked about lower-profile housing, lower-profile housing, scatter housing and, I think, if you add to that, home ownership for low-income people, we'd find us in the city of the Rockford—an acceptance by the community for public housing. One thing, I think you would have to add. The provision that I helped write in the appropriation bill this year; I hope that the House adopts it and the President will sign it.

It provides for public housing being called federal impacted housing. And if every school district that accepts public housing will accept and receive federal funds to aid and support its public schools—if they do that, I think we'll remove the resistance to public housing going in the communities.

Resistance is there now because people fear that it will not be the kind of housing that should be built, and that it will lower the quality of education in the school districts in which it is built.

Q. The problem of racial concentration in the cities like Chicago, of course, dates long before high-rise public housing was built; it is primarily a segregated neighborhood.

The question is how are these people—black people—in Chicago's case—ever going to get to the suburbs without some kind of assistance, if they are in moderate or low income group?

PERCY: I think over a period of time it is inevitable that we do have a more integrated society.

So long as industry moves to the suburbs, and it has been moving steadily to the outlying areas around the city, I think the people are going to have to move with industry.

It is unrealistic to think that a community can attract industry and then prohibit people who work in those industries from living anywhere near the plant in which they work.

I think that we will see resistance melting away, providing we can increase the level of education, increase the quality of life in housing that goes in, and not have high-rise public housing.

And also provide educational assistance for areas that will accept public housing.

Q. Senator, on political terms—on the matter, you kind of endorsed Governor Ogilvie for re-election in the Senate the other day.

Do you think he's—is this the opening of his campaign? Is he going to run again?

PERCY: Well, I didn't endorse him because I was speaking in the Senate, and I don't give political speeches of that type on the Senate floor.

What I did say was that Governor Ogilvie has been called by many of his critics probably one of the best governors this state has ever had. They say he's done some of the right things, but he'll never get re-elected because he imposed the income tax.

I simply told my colleagues in the Senate that I felt that this statement underestimated the intelligence of the American voter. Particularly, I would say, my own constituents in Illinois. I don't think they're going to ask for services and then penalize the man who provided them.

In order to have those services, you have to be able to pay for them. And when we see those services come through, I think that, just as Governor Rockefeller was re-elected, that we had to impose taxes.

Senator Mark Hatfield, who happened to be in the chair when I was speaking at the time, was re-elected and had to raise the money to provide the services.

In the end, people are more intelligent than most observers give them credit for being.

I don't think they are going to ask people to provide the services, and then penalize them and put them out of office any time they have to raise the revenue, particularly when the revenue could not have been raised without bi-partisan support in the legislature by both Democrats and Republicans.

What about your own re-election campaign? Are you going to run in 1972?

PERCY: I've said if I'm going to run, I would run for the Senate. I know of no reason that I wouldn't, but I don't imagine that I'd declare an intention until probably the end of this year.

I think that some times when you start running a campaign, you forget you're holding office. And I have a busy year this year in the Senate.

I think that the best way to earn the right to be re-elected is to do a good job in the office that you're holding, and it's a long way until election day, November 1972.

21.6 Million Youths To be in Labor Force

An estimated 21.6 million persons 16-24 years old are expected to be in the civilian labor force in July, about four million more than in April, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

The number of young persons in the labor force increases sharply each summer as millions of students enter the job market for temporary summer employment and large numbers of high school and college graduates who were not working while in school take or seek permanent jobs. This year's increase of four million is slightly larger than the 3.8 million increase last year.

Students entering the labor force for summer jobs will account for about two-thirds (2.7 million) of the overall April-to-July increase. The remainder (1.3 million) will be high-school and college graduates moving into the labor force this summer on a permanent basis. The latter estimate of graduates excludes more than 500,000 students who were already in the labor force last April (either employed-mostly part time-or seeking work) and who will be shifting to permanent labor market participation by July.

Included in the total who were seeking work last April were persons looking for and available for work immediately, but not those looking for summer jobs. If the summertime inflow is as large as expected, the number of persons 16-24 in the civilian labor force would total 21.6 million in July 1971, about one million more than in July 1970. This rise results primarily from an increase in the civilian population 22 to 24 years old, part of which reflects cutbacks in the size of the Armed Forces.

Youth Focus

Unemployment among young people (as well as other workers) through the early months of 1971 has been higher than a year ago. To reduce the level of unemployment (seasonally adjusted), more than 3.1 million additional jobs will be needed for 16 to 24 year-olds this July, as compared with April. For 16-19 year-olds, in particular, employment will have to increase by more than 2.2 million to bring the July level of unemployment (seasonally adjusted) below that for April.

In the nation's 20 largest metropolitan areas, an estimated 2.7 million 16-19 year-olds are expected to be in the labor force this coming summer (June-August average), a

Mobile Home Living Is Increasingly Popular

By JAMES M. WOODWARD
Copley News Service

The appeal of carefree living, low costs, and warm congeniality is motivating increasing thousands of persons to move into a mobile home community. Many inquiries in recent weeks have related to this popular way of life.

Several readers asked why there are so few mobile home communities, in view of the strong interest. The answer primarily centers on economics and zoning.

The high cost of land makes most desirable land parcels unfeasible for mobile home park development.

This is especially true today with the trend toward larger coaches, which require larger sites, and demand for more recreational and social facilities.

Zoning is always a problem. Few well-located areas are ready-zoned for mobile home developments.

It's difficult to obtain needed rezoning, since there is still substantial public resistance to what used to be termed "trailer parks."

However, most of today's large and complete mobile home communities are in sharp contrast to the old concept.

One reader complained of a newly imposed "$1,000 fee" charged by the developer-owners when a coach is sold within their park. "Is this legal? If so, it's at least very unfair," the resident wrote.

The new intrapark requirement is probably quite legal. Such details are usually worked out by attorneys to be legally sound.

The ever-rising curve of taxes and other costs are underlying reasons for such revenue-producing methods in most cases.

"It's a matter of either raising rents for our coach sites or finding other means to meet our costs," one major park owner-operator reasoned.

Governor Outlines Planned Transportation Improvements

By GOV. RICHARD B. OGILVIE

When the Illinois Senate was voting in the closing days of the session on the transportation bills, I had important visitors in my office.

So I had to turn off the loud-speaker which carries the proceedings of the Senate. Instead of listening, I turned my attention to my visitors.

But I told my secretary: "Keep track of the vote, and bring me a note the minute the bills pass."

She did so shortly, and I felt like a manager whose team has just won the Series—while he was tied up elsewhere.

That's how much store I put by the bills, which I am convinced mean a new era of prosperity for Illinois.

I continued with the meeting, but the moment I was done I left the office.

I went in search of legislative leaders of both parties, and when I found them I expressed my admiration and gratitude for their success in negotiating passage of the bills.

Under our new Constitution, a three-fifths affirmative vote was required—an obvious impossibility in the evenly divided General Assembly if senators and representatives voted a partisan position.

In the months of negotiations which preceded final passage, reporters kept asking me: "Do you think the transportation bills will pass?"

I must have worn them out with my cheerful and optimistic answers.

Well, I was optimistic, partly because that's my nature and partly because I was convinced that the soundness of the program would be recognized.

The program is balanced for all sections of the state and for all forms of transportation. It is comprehensive in its scope. And it will make a massive start on some long unmet needs.

Briefly, the bills do the following:

1. Create a new Department of Transportation on Jan. 1 to direct comprehensive planning and execution of all major transportation needs of the state.

2. Provide $600 million in bond funds to begin construction of the nearly 2,000 miles of new freeways which are vital to the interstate routes already established in the state.

3. Make available $200 million for all forms of mass transit—bus lines, commuter railroads and inter-city railroad passenger service.

4. Create a pool of $100 million to aid in airport developments throughout the state.

The element of balance is seen both in the statewide scope of the bills and in their application to different forms of transportation.

I think there is also a strong element of fairness in the bills, in that gas taxes will pay off the $600 million in bonds for roads, while general revenues will support the other $300 million in bonds.

A few critics have complained that we are "saddling our children with huge debts that cannot be paid."

If we all followed that line of reasoning, we would say for years and pay cash for our homes, so as to avoid being in debt.

We need the roads and airport developments and transit aid now—just as young families need homes.

And what we will buy with the $200 million can be expected to serve our children long after the bonds have been repaid.

Two years ago, the General Assembly approved an increase in the tax on gasoline to fund the $2 billion program to build the supplemental freeway system.

That program—to my great disappointment—was killed by the Illinois Supreme Court. But the added revenues were put to work and speeded up road rebuilding throughout the state.

Now we can apply those revenues to the $600 million road program.

Downstate, particularly, know how stifling it is to economic growth to have their roads served only by outmoded, two-lane highways.

That is why I predict a new era of prosperity for Illinois.

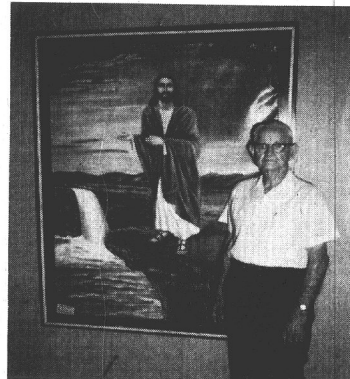

And when we succeed in building a new St. Louis-area airport, a new chapter will begin for chronically depressed Illinois communities in that area, and for many of the southwestern counties of the state.

I am hopeful, too, that the aid to mass transit will help turn the corner on declining ridership and deteriorating service.

Most of all, I am pleased that a program that was badly needed won bipartisan, even overwhelming, approval in the General Assembly.

Time, I think, will show that a victory was won by all the people of Illinois.

Retiree, 85, Active as Painter, Art Exhibitor

By DONNA HOGAN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Retirement is not an end but a beginning of a new and active life, according to James Davis, 85, Kirkpatrick Homes, who has found painting an enjoyable pastime to fill the hours of his day since he retired 15 years ago.

"I have been painting for years but never really had enough time before to devote to my hobby," Mr. Davis said. He has had several of his creations on exhibit at art shows in Wood River, East St. Louis and Granite City.

A talented painter, he began sketching at the age of seven and has continued through the years whenever time permitted. He has never had professional training.

"When I was a young man, painting was not considered important enough to have regular classes of instruction in school. Anyone who wanted to engage in the art just had to learn by trial and error," he added. "I have many times finished a painting and would make a number of changes before I was completely satisfied."

Nears 86th Birthday
Mr. Davis, who will observe his 86th birthday in August, enjoys good health which he attributes to a regular diet and exercise program he actively continues each day. "I keep abreast of new ideas regarding foods and vitamins and adjust my diet to suit my present activities," Mr. Davis remarked.

The local artist has several paintings at his home, which are for sale, but his most prized is a full-length painting of Jesus which measures about 5 1/2 x 4 1/2, and a bust size painting of Abraham Lincoln.

Other paintings which offer a variety of interesting subjects is a copy of an elderly lady, head and shoulders, shown in deep thought, a picture of two pointer dogs, a life size picture of a horse and several farm-lake and other scenic paintings, and a self portrait.

One of the most enjoyable works of art he was commissioned to do was a painting of C. A. McMillan when he served as executive director of the YMCA. The presentation was made in appreciation of the YMCA allowing the Senior Citizens club to hold its meetings there. The presentation was kept secret until the painting was finished and delivered.

For a change of pace in his hobby interests, Mr. Davis has a collection of unusual news items taken from magazines and newspapers, on a worldwide scope as well as historical information.

Mr. Davis was born in Cave-In-Rock, Ill., and came to Granite City in 1933. He was employed for a time at the Nesco plant and for 13 years was self-employed in a trucking business.

He also built houses for rental purposes and remodeled houses later selling them as part of his livelihood. In his spare time he did sign painting on a commercial level.

The artistic retiree has a son, William Monroe Davis, who resides at 3240 Aubrey Ave. He and his wife are the parents of three children.

His daughter, Mrs. Roy (Margaret) Wilman, lives with her husband at 2010 Pontoon Road. They have two children and three grandchildren.

$10,500 Research Grant Given to GC Student

An unusual research grant two normal infants and two blind infants from the time of their birth in the Orange County Medical Center to compare their motor behavior and pre-linguistic vocalization. She plans to duplicate the study in Mexico City to provide a cultural comparison. She will also study cultural differences in gestures of blind infants in the United States and Mexico.

Miss Lapinski hopes her research will indicate means of helping blind and deaf children retain their ability to communicate by non-verbal means.

The National Institute of Mental Health has awarded the University of California, Irvine student a $10,500 fellowship and a research grant, usually reserved for scholars with academic rank, to carry out research for her doctoral dissertation.

Special Signal Lights At Local Canal Locks

The U. S. Corps of Engineers has installed special signal lights at four Mississippi river boating areas that rank among the most heavily used by Illinois watercraft operators. Henry N. Barkhausen, director of the state Department of Conservation, has announced.

The rapid-flashing, high-intensity blue and white strobe lights are designed to assist in directing traffic through locks and dams, Barkhausen reported.

They are in use at dams and locks 24 through 27, at Clarksville and Winfield, Mo., and Alton and Granite City, Ill., respectively.

Old System Confusing

Barkhausen said the equipment was installed as a safety measure following numerous boater complaints about the lock signal system. Critics said the system was confusing as to when small craft could safely enter a lock, especially when towboats were in the locks.

Barkhausen said the new lights will complement, not replace, the existing signals. They can be found in the following locations at the four sites:

Dam-Lock 24 and 25—on the landwall, immediately below the red, amber and green signal lights which are adjacent to the locks.

Dam-Lock 26—on the riverwall, about 300 feet above the lock at the facility's upper end and on the handrail near the end of the riverwall at the lock's lower end.

Granite City Lock 27—on the intermediate wall, on poles directly above the upper lift gates and adjacent to the lower lock gate. Arrows route traffic.

Barkhausen said all small craft will be signaled for entry to the locks only by means of the new strobe lights. All other lock procedures, signals and regulations will be unchanged.

Card of Thanks 32

We wish to express our gratitude to our many relatives, friends, neighbors, classmates and co-workers at McDonnell Douglas Corp. for their kindness shown during the recent death of CHARLES VIDAN and MICHAEL VIDAN.
The floral arrangements, the many cards and expression of sympathy, the financial assistance that enabled the family to be together, the food brought in by many neighbors, the contribution made by Concordia Lutheran Church's Board for Social Ministry and the fund that was started for MICHAEL were greatly appreciated.

In Memoriam 33

In loving memory of JODIE
WHITE, July 8, 1970.
He has solved it, life's wonderful problem.
The deepest, the strangest, the last.
And into the school of the
With an answer forever has passed.
How strange he should sleep so profoundly.
So young, so unworldly to strife.
While beside him brimful of hope's nectar.
Unfathomed stood the Goblet of Life.
God knew all about it, how noble.
How gentle he was and how brave.
How bright his possible future,
Yet put him to sleep in his grave.
God knew all about those who love him.
How bitter the trial must be—
And bitter through it all God is loving.
And knows so much better than we.
Sadly missed by:
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

CLAIM NOTICE

STATE OF ILLINOIS
IN THE CIR

Regional Report - Transportation, Park, Hospital News

(Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corporation)
The Senate passed and sent to the Governor a $900 million transportation program.

Governor Ogilvie now has $15 million to purchase the Columbia-Waterloo site for the new St. Louis area jetport.
The transportation package which includes $32 million for mass transit systems, means a possible Rock Island-Alton freeway and thousands of dollars in subsidies to Bi-State Transit System without matching funds from local governmental bodies.

Recreation in this region made news with the announcement of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's five-year park plan.

The plan, which calls for the development of 12 parks in the three-county Illinois region, covers a broad range from the 5,000-acre Horseshoe Lake park to the 200-acre East St. Louis waterfront development and a 37-acre nature preserve at Fults in Monroe County.

City parks for Cahokia and O'Fallon are proposed, along with bigger parks in rural areas. In all, the total land to be acquired amounts to approximately 11,000 land acres and 2,000 water acres at a cost of $9 to $10 million.

In area college news, Monticello College officially turned over its furnishings, tools and teaching equipment to the Lewis and Clark Community College Board of Trustees. The biggest item in the transfer, being made without cost to the tax-subsidized Lewis and Clark District 58, is Monticello's 29,000-volume library, estimated to be worth more than $300,000.

In Lebanon, McKendree College announced a total of $100,345 has been collected in its fund-raising campaign. The overall goal of $300,000 represents 14% of the college's operating budget for the fiscal year that ended June 30.

Consideration of bills authorizing the use of state tax revenues to guarantee construction of an exposition and performing arts hall in this area has been postponed until fall.

Sponsoring Senator Sam Vadalabene, (D, Edwardsville), who reluctantly agreed to the delay at Gov.

Ogilvie's request, said there has been an agreement with the administration to include centers for Springfield and Rockford in the bills.

A $8 million, 123-bed hospital for the Collinsville-Edwardsville area—affiliated with the Christian Welfare Hospital in East St. Louis—has been approved by the Illinois Department of Public Health.

The hospital, which is still in the planning stage, is to be built by Southern Illinois Health Facilities, Inc., a non-profit corporation formed last fall by merging the St. Clair Hospital Association and Madison County hospital associations. It is to be located at the intersection of Routes 159 and 162 between Collinsville and Edwardsville.

Congressman Melvin Price dedicated the new wing of the Wood River Township Hospital. The wing, which cost $2,682,523, doubles the capacity of the original hospital and features three emergency rooms, a physical therapy department and two dental offices.

Part of the hospital improvements include emergency power facilities, expansion of the cafeteria and a new auditorium, which was added to the first floor of the original building.

Five planning and administrative regions for key state agencies are to be formed through an executive order by Governor Richard Ogilvie, apparently as part of an effort to set up "little state houses" across Illinois.

The change to a centralized regional system for state offices will be a "paper" change until the regional state office buildings are built.

East St. Louis, as the site for a regional state office building, would be the center for Region Four, which is to be made of the seven counties of Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Washington, Clinton and Bond.

In general area news, Richard E. Vandegriff was appointed executive vice-president of the Greater Alton Association of Commerce; expansion of Belleville's downtown parking lot system is "on schedule" and should be fully operational by early fall.

The city of Collinsville's $8 million sewer extension project received a minor setback when no one bid on $1 million in revenue bonds; and the Greater Mississippi River Arts Council of Alton held its annual creative display at Piasa Creek on the Great River Road.

Secretary Lewis Cites Rural Road 'Hypnosis'

Springfield—Rural letter carriers could become "targets" for those drivers who think the basic safety precautions don't apply on rural roads, or who assume nobody else is on the road because usually nobody is," Secretary of State John W. Lewis warned Wednesday.

In a talk at the 75th anniversary convention of the Rural Letter Carriers Association of Illinois, Lewis asked for the group's support of the state's traffic safety program, adding that the association and the secretary of state's office have a mutual interest in safety on the roads.

There seems to be a "special kind of hypnosis" which affects drivers who do almost all of their driving on the less-used roads, he said.

"They become accustomed to having the road to themselves most of the time, and they become careless about such things as speed, stop signs, proper lane usage, turning maneuvers and other safety practices," Secretary Lewis said.

"Most important of all, being alone on the road most of the time seems to hypnotize them into thinking that this is a permanent condition, and they fail to notice other vehicles when they appear."

Expressing his disapproval of a growing attitude that safety efforts should ignore the driver, and concentrate on highway construction and safer vehicles, Lewis said he believes the driver is the "most important part of the picture, and in Illinois, we have not forgotten the problem of the driver."

He cited the state's driver's license law, cooperation from courts in reporting convictions for traffic law violations to the secretary of state, the re-examination program for all drivers and the high school driver education program.

Lewis urged the rural carriers to support "the new concept in Illinois that traffic safety education should begin at the grade school level."

Paul H. Kelly, announced in the Press-Record last week as the new plant manager of the A. O. Smith Corp. automotive frame producing plant in Granite City, will assume that post effective Aug. 1, it was disclosed this week.

He succeeds Paul J. Kemp, plant manager since Nov. 1, 1950, who has been promoted to director of manufacturing and services for the corporation's automotive division.

In his new post, Kemp will be responsible for all of the Milwaukee-based manufacturing and maintenance services for the automotive division, as well as the Granite City plant. He will be headquartered in Milwaukee, his home town.

has been named to the position of manufacturing superintendent of the Granite City plant. He has been assistant manufacturing superintendent for the plant here since 1959.

With Firm 20 Years
Kelly joined A. O. Smith Corp. in 1951 and most recently has been the manufacturing superintendent for the Granite City plant.

Prior to that, he was manager of personnel for the Granite City operations.

Kelly began his career with A. O. Smith in Milwaukee as a training and employment specialist.

In 1958, he was transferred to the Granite City plant and held such positions as general supervisor of training and personnel and general supervisor of labor relations.

In 1962, he was transferred to the Glasco Division of A. O. Smith Corp. in Cleveland, O., as manager of personnel. He returned to the Granite City plant as personnel manager in 1964.

Kelly, age 50, and his wife, June, live in north St. Louis County. The couple have one daughter, Mrs. Judith Kopp, who resides in Milwaukee.

Active in Local Groups

Kelly is a past president of the East Side Industrial Relations Association, and is a member of the Tri-Cities Manufacturers' Association and Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce. Kemp, 45, joined A. O. Smith as a management trainee after graduating as a mechanical engineer in 1947 from Marquette University. He later completed the middle management program of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

After completing the management training program, Kemp held supervisory and general supervisory positions in the automotive frame division in the Milwaukee plant. In 1958, he was named superintendent of the control arm division and followed this with a similar assignment in the truck frame division in Milwaukee.

In 1961, Kemp became superintendent of the automotive division's south plant, which assembles frames for Cadillac, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, and Buick autos. He was named plant manager for the Granite City automotive frame assembly plant in the fall of 1966.

Heads Manufacturers

Kemp is presently the president of the Manufacturers' Association of the Tri-Cities and a member of its board of directors.

He is a vice-president and member of the board of directors of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce and, in addition, is one of the board of directors of the Southern Division of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association and the Cahokia Mound Chapter of the Boy Scouts of America.

Kemp was a division chairman in the recent St. Elizabeth Hospital expansion fund drive, and headed up the Madison County Tuberculosis Association Christmas seal campaigns in 1968 and 1969.

A member of the board of directors of the Tri-Cities United Fund, Kemp has served that organization in various capacities, including chairman of the Industrial Section, and chairman of the Admissions and Distribution Committee. He currently is co-vice-chairman of the 1971 U.F. campaign.

He also served as general chairman of the Madison-St. Clair Counties regional United States savings bond campaigns in 1969 and 1971. He is a board representative of the Granite City Scholarship Foundation.

Kemp and his wife, Mary Ellen, have seven children, ages six to seventeen, including two sets of twins. They presently live in St. Louis County.

In 1960, he was promoted to assistant manufacturing superintendent.

$19 Million Service Tax Refunds to Begin

By JOAN MURPHY

Copley News Service

Springfield — Refunds are expected to begin going out "soon" to persons who have filed claims for return of sales taxes paid on certain service categories on which the tax was later held unconstitutional.

Arnold Lasky, in the Revenue Department, said the deadline has passed for filing claims for refunds on sales taxes paid on repairs, printing and the graphic arts, by sellers of prescription drugs and special tool and machinery producers.

However, claims are being accepted now on tobacco product sales taxes, which were also thrown out by the courts, Lasky said.

Reimbursements are not being handled by the state Revenue Department, but by the American National Bank and Trust of Chicago, which holds the protest fund and which was designated by the courts to administer the reimbursements.

Something over $19 million has been authorized for refunds on the service sales tax, with an additional amount to be repaid on tobacco products taxes.

Persons wishing to claim refunds, or secure additional information, may contact Perry Callas at the American National Bank and Trust, according to Revenue Department spokesmen.

The Illinois General Assembly in 1967 extended the sales tax to the contest areas, but the move was held unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court in 1968.

In a ruling last month, the Illinois Supreme Court approved refunding of the $19 million which had been held by the bank in the protest fund after the initial unconstitutionality ruling.

The Supreme Court action in effect upheld the ruling by the Cook County Circuit Court which had called for the refund. The lower court had ruled that $19 million of the $30 million which had accumulated in the fund should be returned because that was approximately the amount of money collected in the tax on the services.

Funds Allotted State for Summer Feeding Program

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced it will allocate an additional $1,730,457 to Illinois to carry out summer feeding programs for children during July and August.

Due to a depleted earlier budget, the $1,730,457 in additional funds will be the only money available to run Illinois' summer programs. This compares with the $1,019,389 used for the same activities during July and August of 1970.
